Air Commission Votes Temporary Permit To Build

By DON HOENSHELL

LANSING — Mead Corp. will start construction immediately on a $65 million pulp mill at the Escanaba Paper Co.

The Michigan Air Pollution Control Commission voted 6 to 2 Tuesday to give the firm a temporary permit.

Chairman John Soet, chief of the Michigan Health Department division responsible for pollution control, said the temporary permit will clear the way for immediate construction.

Modifications of the conditions of operation of the mill will be made and accepted in their substance by the commission at a special meeting here next Tuesday.

"We're not intending by this delay to turn it down," said Commissioner Morton Sterling of Detroit. "We're intending to approve a final permit next week when the document (permit) is perfected."

The flow of testimony and other evidence crystallized before the commission after more than six months of public and private debate. The final approval was expected Tuesday.

Mead spokesmen told how engineering and research on the hydrogen sulfide emission of the controversial kraft process has improved the proposed installations beyond the best used in the nation.

SOA Testifies

Representatives of the Delta County Citizens Committee to Save Our Air showed a film clip, played a tape of interviews and gave testimony that the installation of similar equipment to curb pollution at the American Can Co. mill at Halsey, Ore., was less than perfect.

Mead said it has flown 12 community leaders to Lansing from Escanaba by commercial airliner at its own expense to testify to the economic need for the mill and to challenge the charged dispoiling of the environment it would bring.

The hearing was already overtime into mid-afternoon when Douglas Scott, a University of Michigan student from Oregon representing ENACT, a student environmental activist group, started a retreat from immediate and unconditional approval.

Questions Emissions

He said the agreement, contained in a special staff written section of the commission's permit, should be examined. Scott raised questions about the 1 to 3 parts of emission to a million parts of air tolerance, about the prevailing winds issue, about pollution possible from a kiln operation as well as the main stacks.

Scott proposed a restriction on the overload of recovery boilers, and monthly monitoring to which the public would have access.

"Will it smell to local noses under local conditions?" he asked the commission. "I think that it will."

Commissioner George Riecks of Trenton proposed an immediate permit, stating that the modifications of the operations document could be worked out later between the commission staff and Mead.

Asks For Delay
"I think we've stalled this long enough," Riecks said. "We've been going over the same testimony in meeting after meeting. I'm satisfied that Mead is not going to violate our law."

Sterling led the battle for delay and declined Soet's offer for him to make the changes in conference with Commission Engineer Bernard N. Bloomfield.

North Central Hijack Foiled

PETOSKEY (AP)—A man hijacked an intercity bus, then attempted to hijack a North Central Airlines passenger plane but, police said, his make-believe gun and bomb were wrestled away from him before he could get off the ground.

The alleged hijacking attempt took place at the Pellston airport shortly after midnight today.

Police said the gun used in the attempt was plastic and the bomb was "a portion of an electric toothbrush with a flashlight battery attached."

Police said the man, whose name was not disclosed, attempted to hijack North Central Airlines Flight 945, which had landed at Pellston enroute from Detroit to Sault Ste. Marie in the Upper Peninsula.

The hijacking attempt began, police said, when the man told the driver of a bus in Petoskey, about 15 miles south of Pellston, to drive him either to Detroit or Flint, some 260 miles south.

Northern Plains Buried By Snow

By The Associated Press
Snow storms whopped at 12-state area of the West and northern Plains today.

Heavy snows blanketed parts of Nevada, Utah, Wyoming and Colorado. Austin, Nev., has received 8 inches of snow since Tuesday and Evanston, Wyo., 6 inches.

The Weather Bureau issued heavy snow warnings for the Black Hills region of South Dakota and stockmen's warnings in northern Colorado, Wyoming, most of South Dakota, western and central Nebraska and northwestern Kansas.

Rain was common at lower elevations throughout the West. Scattered showers also splattered an area from the eastern Great Lakes to New England, while snow plastered the higher elevations of the northern Appalachians.

Mild temperatures and mostly clear skies prevailed across the South and Southwest.

Earth Day Program Thoroughly Backed

By The Associated Press
Earth Day is a cleaned pond, a buried auto, a college teacher. It is thousands of Americans seeking to understand the ills of their environment and learn how they can be corrected. Earth Day is today.

The unprecedented event focuses attention in more than 2,000 communities across the country on pollution problems, both local and national. In addition, many groups slated massive clean-ups.

Business Offers Help
At the same time, some corporations and large businesses singled out for criticism by anti-pollution groups took advertisements and planned talks at various school and community groups to give their side of the story.

Activities planned range from a "pollution trail" in Oklahoma to grade schoolers' litter pickup. Many were designed to highlight one of four areas: water pollution, air pollution, the automobile and general litter.

Hundreds of motorists planned to forsake their automobiles for the day to protest pollution caused by the internal combustion engine. New York Mayor John V. Lindsay planned to ride to appointments in an electric car.

Traffic Bans Set
Traffic bans were scheduled in parts of many cities including New York and Philadelphia. The University of Iowa in Iowa City planned a "Survival Parade of Nonmotorized Transportation."

Other groups planned to bury autos and a group at Western Connecticut State College in Danbury will parade through town pulling a cart with a car engine. They plan to bury the engine on campus.

Air pollution is the target of a Boulder, Colo. group calling itself People United to Reclaim the Environment. They asked residents to curtail use of electricity in an attempt to "reduce air pollution caused by electricity-generating plants."

Sand-Dumping Plan
In Jamestown, N.Y., the Kiwanis Club will dump 20 tons of sand in the downtown area to demonstrate how much dirt falls on one square mile of the city during 30 days of maximum air pollution.

The spokesman said Alpha 66 also was demanding a U.S. "declaration that Cuba is already in a state of war."

"The welcome and reception of Cubans living in and around the landing spot were out of the expected proportions," the spokesman said, "and scores of fellow countrymen joined the invasion forces on their way into the hills."

A statement released by Alpha 66 said, "In the name of freedom and self-determination of the Cuban people, we remind the mandates of this country (the United States) and those of Central and South America, that time after time they said to the whole world they would support, help and assist any inside revolt of the people of Cuba."

"We ask and demand that they live up to their commitments," it added.

Meanwhile, the head of the Cuban army in Oriente Province said over Havana Radio his troops had surrounded the invasion forces and "within 48 hours they will be completely exterminated."

The number of invaders has not been disclosed.

Campus Destruction

Water pollution was the concern of a group of women from Canada and the United States who joined forces Tuesday to picket on Zug Island in the Detroit River. They protested alleged pollution by the Great Lakes Steel Corp.

Among the litter collection efforts was that of fifth and sixth graders at the Whitehall, Mich., Elementary School. They got a head start on Earth Day and have gathered 91,600 bottles and cans toward a goal of 200,000.

To Collect Cans
Reynolds Metals Co. said it would send trucks to 18 colleges in 14 states to pick up aluminum cans collected during "trash-ins." They will pay for the cans and will recycle the aluminum for reuse.

In addition the company will have speakers at 15 high schools and universities to answer questions about its operations "and share with them our plans for a cleaner environment."

In Chicago, employees of Commonwealth Edison Co. and Abbott Laboratories, two companies singled out for criticism by anti-pollution groups recently, will give talks at various high schools and colleges.

In the nation's schools and colleges a variety of teach-in programs and demonstrations were planned.

Water Turned Off
Water fountains at the Coburn Elementary School in Elmira, N.Y., will be turned off all day to give the children an idea of what it might be like to be without fresh water.

GOP Prepared To Challenge Impeachment

WASHINGTON (AP)—House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford is facing a challenge within GOP ranks to his effort to impeach Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas.

In an hour long speech Tuesday, Rep. Paul N. McCloskey, Jr., a Republican lawyer from California, said Ford's charges against Douglas do not constitute grounds for impeachment.

McCloskey spoke out shortly after the House Judiciary Committee agreed to consider an impeachment resolution against Douglas. Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., promised a full and impartial inquiry by a special five-member subcommittee.

Should the panel refuse to send the resolution to the floor, a second resolution calling for an investigation by a special committee selected by the speaker is still alive and could be activated at any time.

Ford, following the Celler panel's action, said he still preferred the select committee approach, which would have three Republicans and three Democrats, to the 3-2 Democratic control of the judiciary panel.

Although many Republicans have said privately Ford was making a mistake in leading the charge against Douglas, McCloskey, a 42-year-old second term, was the first to speak out publicly.

He read a 26-page speech that amounted to a legal brief opposing the case Ford made against Douglas in a speech last Wednesday.

Astronaut Trio Favors Flights

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP)—The men of Apollo 13 were cold, bone-tired and fretful about their ability to get home. But go again? Sure.

And it's a measure of Jim Lovell, Fred Haise and Jack Swigert that they are looking out for the other guys, the astronauts-in-waiting who might be created out of a flight if the 13 crew suits up for Apollo 16 or 17.

"We certainly wanted to make a lunar landing," Lovell said emphatically. "Fra Mauro has so much to offer, we thought. We spent an awful lot of time at it. But this was my fourth space flight and there are many people in our organization who have not flown and who deserve to fly and are talented enough to fly."

"They deserve the mission. If they (space agency officials) feel that this team should go back there, I'm certainly willing to go back—but otherwise, I think other people ought to do it."

Haise and Swigert nodded agreement. They looked rested and fit, none the worse for their harrowing days in space as they answered newsmen's questions at a 70-minute televised and broadcast news conference Tuesday night.

Lovell's wife Marilyn was in the audience. Before Apollo 13, when Lovell said he planned to hang up his space helmet after the flight, she had said she was glad. Tuesday night, she just smiled.

The hijacking attempt began, police said, when the man told the driver of a bus in Petoskey, about 15 miles south of Pellston, to drive him either to Detroit or Flint, some 260 miles south.

The bus driver, Marshall Pierson, 27, of Hastings, told police the man held an object to the back of his head to emphasize his demand.

However, instead of heading south, Pierson headed north on U.S. 31. As the bus passed the Pellston Airport, the man told Pierson to pull over, police said.

He walked over to the plane, which had just landed at 12:13 a.m., boarded it and ordered the passengers to leave but kept the crew of three on board. They were identified as the pilot, Robert Chirhart, 35, of Ypsilanti, copilot Jerry Dunston, 25, and a stewardess, Maurine Adams, 25, both of the Detroit area.

Notified of the hijacking attempt, State Police arrived on the scene and two troopers got on the plane.

"I have a gun and a bomb and I want your guns, too," the hijacker was quoted as telling the troopers.

State Police Trooper Bill Lawrence replied, "If you want my gun, you'll have to get it yourself," and unbuckled his holster.

As the man reached for the gun, Lawrence grabbed him and wrestled him to the floor of the plane, police report.

He is being held in Emmett County Jail for investigation of kidnapping and attempted hijacking.

GOP Prepared To Challenge Impeachment

WASHINGTON (AP)—House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford is facing a challenge within GOP ranks to his effort to impeach Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas.

In an hour long speech Tuesday, Rep. Paul N. McCloskey, Jr., a Republican lawyer from California, said Ford's charges against Douglas do not constitute grounds for impeachment.

McCloskey spoke out shortly after the House Judiciary Committee agreed to consider an impeachment resolution against Douglas. Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., promised a full and impartial inquiry by a special five-member subcommittee.

Should the panel refuse to send the resolution to the floor, a second resolution calling for an investigation by a special committee selected by the speaker is still alive and could be activated at any time.

Ford, following the Celler panel's action, said he still preferred the select committee approach, which would have three Republicans and three Democrats, to the 3-2 Democratic control of the judiciary panel.

Although many Republicans have said privately Ford was making a mistake in leading the charge against Douglas, McCloskey, a 42-year-old second term, was the first to speak out publicly.

He read a 26-page speech that amounted to a legal brief opposing the case Ford made against Douglas in a speech last Wednesday.

Astronaut Trio Favors Flights

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP)—The men of Apollo 13 were cold, bone-tired and fretful about their ability to get home. But go again? Sure.

And it's a measure of Jim Lovell, Fred Haise and Jack Swigert that they are looking out for the other guys, the astronauts-in-waiting who might be cheated out of a flight if the 13 crew suits up for Apollo 16 or 17.

"We certainly wanted to make a lunar landing," Lovell said emphatically. "Fra Mauro has so much to offer, we thought. We spent an awful lot of time at it. But this was my fourth space flight and there are many people in our organization who have not flown and who deserve to fly and are talented enough to fly."

"They deserve the mission. If they (space agency officials) feel that this team should go back there, I'm certainly willing to go back—but otherwise, I think other people ought to do it."

Haise and Swigert nodded agreement. They looked rested and fit, none the worse for their harrowing days in space as they answered newsmen's questions at a 70-minute televised and broadcast news conference Tuesday night.

Lovell's wife Marilyn was in the audience. Before Apollo 13, when Lovell said she planned to hang up his space helmet after the flight, she had said she was glad Tuesday night, she just smiled.

Doomsday Sundae Set For Serving

EATON RAPIDS (AP)—The "Eco-Catastrophe Sundae" is only one of a series of "Harmful to Humans" deserts offered by a Michigan ice cream parlour, supporting the April 22 "Earth Day" activities.

Miller Farms Old-Tyme Ice Cream Parlor features such items as the $37 billion "Eco-Catastrophe Sundae" described as "our doomsday delight, a gouged and plundered planet, void of fish and wildlife, ripped with rivers of algae, permeated with industrial waste, and sprinkled with 7 million junk cars."

The place-mat style menus the parlour uses are printed in "Eco-green on biodegradable paper" and list many pollution facts and citizens actions to support the battle for cleaner air, water and land.

Mishap Fatal

SOUTH HAVEN (AP)—Mark Watkins, 44, of South Haven, was fatally injured Tuesday when an arm fell from a crane and struck him on the back of the head.

Authorities said Watkins, working at an area where the city was tearing down a house, when a cable on the crane broke loose.

Choir, Chorale Rated Superior

The Escanaba Area High School Choir and Chorale scored well in the recent Upper Peninsula School Music Association - sponsored festival at Escanaba Area High School.

The choir performed before three judges from two Wisconsin Universities.

Generally, the three judges were in agreement as to the excellent choice of music. The Choir performed Randall Thompson's "The Last Words of David," "O Vos Omnes" by Vittoria, and "The Mystic Trumpeter" by Norman Delo Joio, the latter number being an exceedingly difficult contemporary composition.

Dr. Robert Jennings offered congratulations to the group for its excellently controlled soft passages. John Koopman commented on the choir's excellent tonal concept, control of color and tone, and that the general effect was outstanding. Karle Erickson offered these comments, "Excellent fullness of sound, infrequently heard from high school groups, fine vowel unity and purity, exciting vitality in performance."

The choir received a unanimous Division I rating from the three judges and also a Division I rating in sight reading from Austin Boncher.

The Chorale performed before the same judges, singing a newly-arranged Finnish folk song by David Laakso entitled "Summer Evening," a negro spiritual "Ain't Got Time to Die" by Hall Johnson, and "Truly Was the Word Made Flesh" by Schein.

The comments were also in the area of excellent tone, intonation, articulate diction, beautiful sensitive interpretation, which resulted in the Chorale also being accorded a unanimous Division I or Superior rating.

The E.A.H.S. Choir and Chorale along with the Junior High Chorale will present its annual Spring Concert in the William W. Oliver Auditorium Thursday, April 30, at 7:30 p. m. There will be no admission charged. A free will offering will be received for the Music Department's Summer Scholarship fund.

Republicans Don't Want More Taxes, Seek Budget Cut

In Lansing
LANSING (AP) — Majority Senate Republicans have agreed to oppose any increase in the income tax rate this year and cut at least $25-$50 million from Gov. William Milliken's proposed $1.75 billion budget for 1970-71.

The caucus decision Tuesday, said Majority Leader Emil Lockwood, makes it "virtually impossible" for the Legislature to pass the $1.2 billion school aid plan now pending in the upper chamber.

The aid bill — dubbed "Spencer-Ryan" after House Speaker William Ryan, D-Detroit, and Rep. Roy Spencer, R-Attica—would raise Milliken's proposed school spending level by some $270 million and increase the Senate-passed school bill by some $248 million.

A companion measure, still pending in the House, would raise an estimated $350 million to help pay for education through increases in the state income tax.

Milliken has called the "Spencer-Ryan" plan "unacceptable" because the spending level would necessitate the tax increase, a course of action he staunchly opposes this election year.

Lockwood indicated proponents of the Spencer-Ryan plan would fail to muster the 20 Senate votes required to pass it, since the GOP controls 20 seats and the Democrats hold 18. Lockwood said 16-17 of the Republican members attended the Tuesday caucus and voted "unanimously" against a tax hike.

Position Disputed
"I'm not persuaded that's a hard and fast position," Ryan said of the caucus vote.

The House, he said, "took an extreme position" when it adopted the higher spending plan. "Maybe they're taking one too."

Lockwood said, however, that Republicans planned a second caucus next week to discuss Michigan's fiscal situation and determine where cuts could be made to both the school aid bill and the other budget items.

The majority leader said he and Milliken conferred on the money questions Tuesday and "I feel he's in accord" with the caucus.

Lockwood cited a delay in passage of a cigarette tax increase as well as so-called tax "loophole" bills as a major reason for the need to make cuts. Milliken had called on lawmakers to raise nearly $41 million by a 4-cent-a-pack increase in the state's 7-cent cigarette tax, effective March 1.

Tax Takes Effect
That tax, stalled in the legislative circles for months, finally took effect April 1 and is expected to raise some $35 million. The governor also sought a March 1 effective date for the tax loophole package sponsored by Senate Taxation Chairman Harry DeMaso, R-Battle Creek.

That, Milliken said, would bring in some $37.6 million if put into effect March 1.

The bills were signed only this week and will raise an estimated $30 million.

Lockwood said "substantial cuts" must be made in Milliken's recommendations because of the lower revenue. The caucus, he said, would discuss those cuts at its Monday caucus next week.

He indicated possible areas to cut were social services—welfare—and capitol outlay.

Reject Charter
MOUNT CLEMENS (AP) — Voters at Clinton Township in Macomb County Tuesday rejected a charter proposal to incorporate into a city called Clinton Valley.

The vote against the proposal was 8,308-1,930. The area has a population estimated at about 50,000.

MEA Doubles State Budget

EAST LANSING — The Representative Assembly of the more than 75,000 member Michigan Education Association has hiked its annual budget from $3.8 million to nearly $7 million.

Assembly delegates also endorsed a program that will see the MEA professional staff increase from its present 39 to 75 by July 1 with an additional 52 staffers to be added during 1971-72. This increase in staffing was adopted to provide more effective field service to MEA's 550 local units. It means there soon will be one field representative for each 800 members, whereas the ratio is presently one to 2,350.

Included in the immediate staff increase is the addition of authorized Minority Affairs division. This unit will be established to develop a program to research the educational needs of special population groups within the state... and to develop curricula for teaching minority students.

To finance the new undertakings, Assembly delegates approved a dues increase for the membership from the current $47 to $82 annually. In addition, dues to the National Education Association have been hiked from $15 to $25. About 25 per cent of the cost of the new staffing program, or some $367,000, is expected to be financed by NEA, returning to Michigan about half of the national dues increase.

The Assembly also authorized establishment of a Political Action Council. Known as MEPAC (Michigan Education Political Action Council), the Council is to

Earth Day

Students and faculty members at colleges and universities and high schools throughout the United States are observing "teach-ins" today in the greatest public demonstration ever of concern over the environment. From coast to coast, literally thousands of speakers are addressing millions of students on the multitudinous aspects of ecology.

All of the Upper Peninsula's institutions of higher learning have arranged a variety of educational programs in connection with the teach-in. Many of the high schools are involved.

Bay de Noc Community College's program got underway at the Student Center this morning and will continue with a symposium open to the public tonight. Northern Michigan University has an ENACT for (Environmental Action) spread over three days, including nearly two dozen events.

Escanaba and Holy Name High School students will join Saturday in a cleanup of Ludington Park. Marquette high school has a symposium scheduled next week on sewage and water problems in Marquette County. Even elementary schools are involved as pupils have drawn posters and written essays on environmental subjects.

The observance of "Environmental Week" and "Earth Day" is taking place in Michigan against the backdrop of state action against alleged mercury and cyanide pollution and debate in the Legislature over a proposed environmental protection act.

Gov. William Milliken declared a fishing ban in Michigan waters of the St. Clair River and Lake St. Clair earlier this month after the waters were shown to have been contaminated with mercury. In the cyanide case, hundreds of gallons of an eight per cent cyanide solution spilled into Ludington's sewer system March 15 from a tank at Straits Steel & Wire Co. Attorney Gen. Frank Kelley won court injunctions against six firms and the City of Ludington in the cyanide cases preventing further contamination of waters by them.

Meanwhile, the House of Representatives passed the environmental protection bill introduced by Rep Thomas J. Anderson (D-Southgate). The measure would give a private citizen or group the same authority as Kelley now has to go to court against an industry, corporation or government to stop pollution. It had been endorsed by Gov. Milliken.

Additionally, Congressman Philip Ruppe (R-Houghton) said in an address to students of Escanaba Area High School last Friday that he is considering new legislation to simplify class action suits so individual citizens can join in the legal battle against degradation of nature. In class action suits, a few people can bring an alleged polluter to court on behalf of all who are harmed by the pollution. At present, these suits cannot be brought unless every individual involved suffers at least $10,000 in damage.

Even before the start of "Earth Day" or "Environmental Week" it was apparent that never before had so many people exhibited such strong concern in problems of the environment. Until recently, the word "ecology" was an obscure term seldom employed in everyday conversation. Now it is on the lips of all.

Related though it is, this far-reaching concern over the world around us just may spare mankind from being engulfed in a sea of pollution. But the movement must spread beyond the limits of the United States and the effort must be sustained.

The big question is whether the people will remain aroused over the problems when the solutions begin to reach into their wallets and family budgets, or if the local protests being voiced around the land today will become cries of moderation when the bills are handed out.

Housing Subsidies

The Nixon Administration's proposal to allow tenants to buy public housing will probably prove costly to the taxpayer.

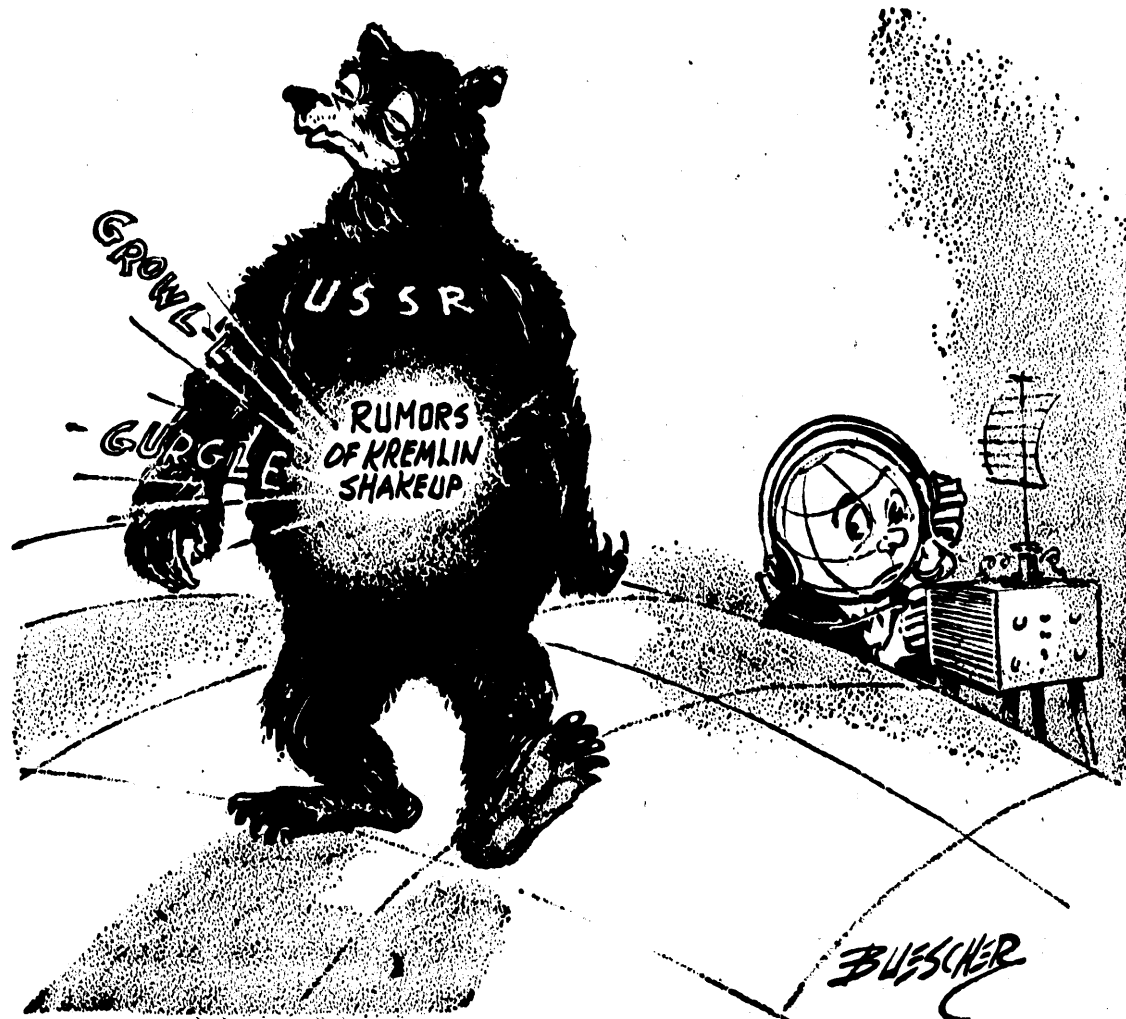

The administration has submitted a bill to Congress which would allow tenants to buy the public housing they live in, with their monthly rent going toward the purchase price. At same time the Secretary of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, George Romney, announced that his department would put into effect a law passed by Congress which puts a ceiling on public housing rent. A tenant will not be required to pay more than 25 per cent of his income on public housing. The government will make up costs above that percentage.

"We know from experience that there is just no comparison between the way people maintain their home if they own the unit than if they are just renting," Romney said in urging passage of the tenant-ownership bill. The question that comes to mind is this: Who will pay the bill to buy these public housing units for the tenants? It is reasonable to assume that if public housing tenants could presently afford to buy homes they would not be living in government dwellings. Furthermore HUD contends some 180,000 tenants cannot even afford the rent on public housing.

Frankly, it is doubtful that many tenants will want to buy public housing, most of which was built in barracks-like style. It's also doubtful that they could afford the upkeep, most of which is now paid for by the government. If some do buy public housing units, will they have the money to maintain them? It's not likely, which means that the government will be selling soon-to-be slums unless it hikes subsidies even higher.

The answer, then, is that the taxpayer who has to pay the full cost of his home or rent will end up paying even more tax money than he now does for public housing while many tenants of government housing will have to pay less.

STOMACH-ACHE?

Republicans Need Harmony In Florida

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Gov. Claude Kirk of Florida, who sometimes confuses Republicanism with pyrotechnics, undoubtedly seized a popular issue when he tried to stop the court-ordered school integration plan for Manatee County.

The integration order prescribed extensive cross-busing, carting kids away from their neighborhood schools to distant places past other schools that would have been closer to home. To add insult to injury, the order was imposed at a time when only a couple of months of the school year remained.

And it was not as if Manatee had tried to dodge desegregation; 53 per cent of the black students in the county were already attending classes with white children.

The order seemed all the more arbitrary because it seemed to violate the Nixon formula, which insists on stern desegregation measures within any given school neighborhood but does not prescribe busing where de facto housing patterns result in a lack of racial balance. Other Florida counties have been subjected to the Manatee stringency. And if Charlotte, N. C., was allowed to retreat from a drastic busing plan, why shouldn't Manatee County in Florida be permitted a similar absolution?

With logic on his side, Gov. Kirk certainly had Manatee people pulling for him when he took over the local schools on a plea that he was merely trying to get the issue of forced busing before the U. S. Supreme Court.

A check in Bradenton, the metropolis of Manatee, brought forth the reasonable conjecture that Kirk had gone one-up on Jack Eckerd, a local Tampa Bay area business man hero, for the inside track in the forthcoming Republican primary for the gubernatorial nomination. A similar check in the Orlando area attested to the popularity of the Kirk stance.

A very possible trouble, however, is that Kirk didn't get away with his pyrotechnics. He backed down somewhat ignominiously when he was threatened with a big fine for each day that he kept the rightful school board from exercising its authority in Manatee. He had said he'd go to jail, but he couldn't take the threatened money penalty.

So how does he emerge politically from the go-around? You can get a lot of opinions, depending on which part of Florida you survey. No doubt the governor has sewed up segregationist support by his original action. But, where this might help him if he switched parties and ran in a Democratic primary, how much good will it do him as a Republican in a state where the majority of the Republicans are transplanted Northerners?

As an outlander I wouldn't presume to guess where the balance lies. But an interesting point has been raised in Tallahassee, the Florida capital. In seizing the power to run the school system even for a few days in a Florida county, Kirk had, so the argument goes, acted entirely outside his authority. The unconstitutional precedent could be dismaying.

What if a future governor, angry at the local fiscal picture, were to remove the tax assessor in one or more counties? What if he were to purge the local rolls?

Come to think of it, it is hardly consistent for a States' Rights, which is what Kirk declared himself to be when he defied the Federal court, to ride roughshod over county rights. Sober reflection might, before the Florida Republican primary is here, dim the advantage Kirk has derived from a momentarily popular stand.

As the incumbent governor, Kirk has an advantage over his Republican rivals, Jack Eckerd and State Sen. L. A. "Skip" Bafalis. He has done well in polls. He can undoubtedly raise the money to give Eckerd a real battle, even though Eckerd is a rich man. Bafalis, a good conservative, must use the power of persuasion to compete in the race, for he lacks the funds available to the others.

Regardless of how the struggle for Republican power comes out, the party infighting could throw things in the state back to the Democrats.

Republican Congressman William Cramer should be a shoo-in for U. S. Senator, but Kirk wants his own man, Lt. Gov. Ray Osborne, in Washington, and the senior Florida U. S. Senator, Ed Gurney, is anti-Cramer.

It's all too bad; the Republicans need harmony in Florida to make sure of that second Senatorial seat.

BURNING UNDERWEAR

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — It doesn't pay to set your underwear afire in a national forest in New Mexico.

The U. S. Forest Service said it has billed Troy Wayne Klaus, 19, of Albuquerque for $51.22. This was the cost to the Forest Service for putting out a fire started by burning underwear.

A Forest Service ranger said Klaus and three friends used their underwear on sticks as torches to light their way along a trail. Bits of the burning cloth ignited patches of grass and pine needles.

Market Letter Writers Beginning To See Light

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Their impatience understandable after 72 long weeks of eroding prices, the men who write the stock market letters seem to have discovered the end of the tunnel. They see light.

Pin them down and they'll concede they see few direct rays piercing the gloom, such as would emanate from reports of rising corporate profits. Profits are down, and could continue poor for many weeks more.

The light, more likely, is projected by their own thinking, which to a great degree is predicated on the assumption that when the gloom is thickest the spirit should grow bright.

This is how the disposition is expressed by Harold Dorsey, founder of Argus Research, one of the largest suppliers of investment information to institutions and brokers.

"This writer came into Wall Street on July 1, 1929. As a result of over 40 years of experience in investment advisory work, I can make other general observations that would seem to be appropriate at the moment."

"When the confidence factor reaches the stage of ebullience and excessive speculation, we are almost invariably around the top of a bull market."

"When despair becomes so deep that it represents an unreasonable balance of the pros and cons, and when it appears that the securities business is just about finished, and when it is concluded that the investing public will never again come back into the market, we are around the bottom of a bear market."

The trouble, says Dorsey, is that it is difficult to judge when the despair is most intense. There are many indicators, however, that can provide a fair idea of the depths of discouragement.

The price - earnings ratio is one. A high P-E ratio, meaning the number of times the earnings can be divided into the price, indicates confidence in the future. A low one, such as now, indicates pessimism.

A year ago the P-E ratio of the 30 stocks that make up the Dow Jones Industrial Average was 16. Earlier this month it was about 14. Last Friday it was only 13.6, indicating extreme gloom. Seldom has it been worse.

Plans for a series of discussions in Escanaba and Delta County designed to give better understanding of the San Francisco Conference and the Dumbarton Oaks proposals will be made at meetings to be held Wednesday afternoon and evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Len Case were guests of honor at a farewell party given by Mrs. Case's mother, Mrs. Ed Frappier, at her home, 1807 N. 20th St., Friends and relatives who were guests played cards and a lunch was served.

50 Years Ago
Pierce Narcisse Bouré, 70, of Escanaba, probably is the oldest man ever to file a declaration of his intention to become a citizen of the United States, in the Delta County naturalization court. Bouré is a native of Canada and came to the U.S. in 1900 from Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

What is destined to be a most instructive and interesting meeting will be held in Escanaba, according to arrangements completed here. This will be a meeting of the Upper Peninsula Dental Society.

Opening lead—five of hearts. Ask any bridge player for his favorite hand and he'll probably choose some relatively unimportant deal in which he played a giant role of a hero because he succeeded in putting something over on the opponents.

You'd think that most players would choose a hand where they executed some far-out triple squeeze or quadruple grand coup, but no, it turns out that the hand they relish most was one where they thoroughly bamboozled the opposition and ran off with all the swag.

Here is the type of hand they might choose. It was played in a national championship and South was Marshall Miles of San Bernardino, Calif., who in recent years has made many highly valuable contributions to the literature and theory of the game and who is also known as an unusually imaginative competitor.

He was playing with his favorite partner, Edwin Kantar, when this hand came along. It is hard to justify his two no-trump rebid, but you can't really quarrel with it when you consider the result Miles achieved.

West led a heart—which was normal enough—and Miles went right up with the ace and returned the king of clubs.

East ducked — which was also quite normal — and now Miles had something to talk about. He quickly cashed seven spades to rack up three no-trump, and he was the only one in the field to score a game with the North-South cards.

You can't really blame East for ducking the club — almost anyone else in his shoes would have done the same—but had East been sufficiently inspired, he would have grabbed the ace and held declarer to five tricks instead of nine. But then we'd have had no story, so perhaps we should all give thanks to East for having made Miles' brilliant coup possible.

Ann Landers

Wife, An Alcoholic; Man 'Goat' In Issue

Dear Ann Landers: You frequently advise women who are married to alcoholics who refuse to help themselves to "throw the bum out."

What do you advise when the drunk is a wife? My life has been pure hell for 11 years because my wife is a boozier. The law won't let me kick her out. My lawyer says if I leave, the courts will give her half of everything I have. I know this is true because a friend of mine walked out on his alcoholic wife. She now lives in a $50,000 home and he is holed up in a dump. He has to give his wife half of everything he makes. Is this justice? — Trapped in Georgia

Dear Georgia: When a man marries, he has a legal obligation to support his wife. The divorce laws in some states, however, are grossly unfair to husbands. I believe they should be changed. When the wife is better equipped to make a living for reasons of health and training, and when no children are involved, the wife should not get half of whatever he earns, come hell or high water, for the rest of her natural life.

Dear Ann Landers: Glad you printed the letter from the guy who never looked sideways at a certain girl but who attached herself to him like a suction cup, pestered his family and hunted him down all over town. I thought I was the only one.

There's this woman, Ann, whose name I couldn't even spell. Suddenly she picked me out for her husband. If she spots me in public I am finished. She has eyes like a hawk and can find me in a stadium that holds 30,000 people. She sent me a birthday gift, Christmas gift, a Valentine gift, cards for Lincoln's birthday, George Washington's birthday and Columbus Day. She has told my family she's going to marry me—as soon as I come to my senses and realize I'm in love with her.

The sad part of it is I might have married her if she hadn't chased me. She is rich and attractive—until she puts on her track shoes. Why are some women so stupid? They spoil it for themselves.—Oklahoma

Dear OK: It's not so much stupidity as insecurity propelled by aggressiveness. But you are right about spoiling it for themselves. They certainly do.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a girl, 14. Last summer when our family went on a holiday, I met a great bunch of teenagers. No smoking, drinking or pot. Just good, clean kids. A certain boy in the crowd (age 16) took a liking to me. We have been corresponding ever since. Last week Eddie wrote that he had saved his money and was coming to see me. He has a friend in town and had arranged to stay at his house. I was very excited and told my parents.

Yesterday Mom was acting very strange. I knew something was wrong. Finally I got it out of her. She had sent Eddie a telegram telling him to cancel his trip because I wasn't THAT interested and signed my name.

I'm very upset. Eddie was a friend, not a sweetheart. Mom says she did it for my own good because he is too old for me. I'd like your opinion.—Unfairly Treated HUDDERSFIELD, England (AP) — The Rev. Stephen Hatcher, a 25-year-old Methodist minister, wants to close down and sell off the churches, church halls and Sunday schools in Britain and give the money raised to Christian Aid.

An added advantage of his plan, he says, is that the clergy of all denominations would then be free to get on with their real work instead of having to worry about organ funds and church repair accounts. He considers it "selfish, self-centered and a terrible waste of time and money" to maintain antiquated buildings that are used mainly by a handful of elderly people only once or twice a week.

Earth Day

Students and faculty members at colleges and universities and high schools throughout the United States are observing "teach-ins" today in the greatest public demonstration ever of concern over the environment. From coast to coast, literally thousands of speakers are addressing millions of students on the multitudinous aspects of ecology.

All of the Upper Peninsula's institutions of higher learning have arranged a variety of educational programs in connection with the teach-in. Many of the high schools are involved.

Bay de Noc Community College's program got underway at the Student Center this morning and will continue with a symposium open to the public tonight. Northern Michigan University has an ENACT for (Environmental Action) spread over three days, including nearly two dozen events.

Escanaba and Holy Name High School students will join Saturday in a cleanup of Ludington Park. Marquette high school has a symposium scheduled next week on sewage and water problems in Marquette County. Even elementary schools are involved as pupils have drawn posters and written essays on environmental subjects.

The observance of "Environmental Week" and "Earth Day" is taking place in Michigan against the backdrop of state action against alleged mercury and cyanide pollution and debate in the Legislature over a proposed environmental protection act.

Gov. William Milliken declared a fishing ban in Michigan waters of the St. Clair River and Lake St. Clair earlier this month after the waters were shown to have been contaminated with mercury. In the cyanide case, hundreds of gallons of an eight per cent cyanide solution spilled into Ludington's sewer system March 15 from a tank at Straits Steel & Wire Co. Attorney Gen. Frank Kelley won court injunctions against six firms and the City of Ludington in the cyanide cases preventing further contamination of waters by them.

Meanwhile, the House of Representatives passed the environmental protection bill introduced by Rep Thomas J. Anderson (D-Southgate). The measure would give a private citizen or group the same authority as Kelley now has to go to court against an industry, corporation or government to stop pollution. It had been endorsed by Gov. Milliken.

Additionally, Congressman Philip Ruppe (R-Houghton) said in an address to students of Escanaba Area High School last Friday that he is considering new legislation to simplify class action suits so individual citizens can join in the legal battle against degradation of nature. In class action suits, a few people can bring an alleged polluter to court on behalf of all who are harmed by the pollution. At present, these suits cannot be brought unless every individual involved suffers at least $10,000 in damage.

Even before the start of "Earth Day" or "Environmental Week" it was apparent that never before had so many people exhibited such strong concern in problems of the environment. Until recently, the word "ecology" was an obscure term seldom employed in everyday conversation. Now it is on the lips of all.

Related though it is, this far-reaching concern over the world around us just may spare mankind from being engulfed in a sea of pollution. But the movement must spread beyond the limits of the United States and the effort must be sustained.

The big question is whether the people will remain aroused over the problems when the solutions begin to reach into their wallets and family budgets, or if the local protests being voiced around the land today will become cries of moderation when the bills are handed out.

Housing Subsidies

The Nixon Administration's proposal to allow tenants to buy public housing will probably prove costly to the taxpayer.

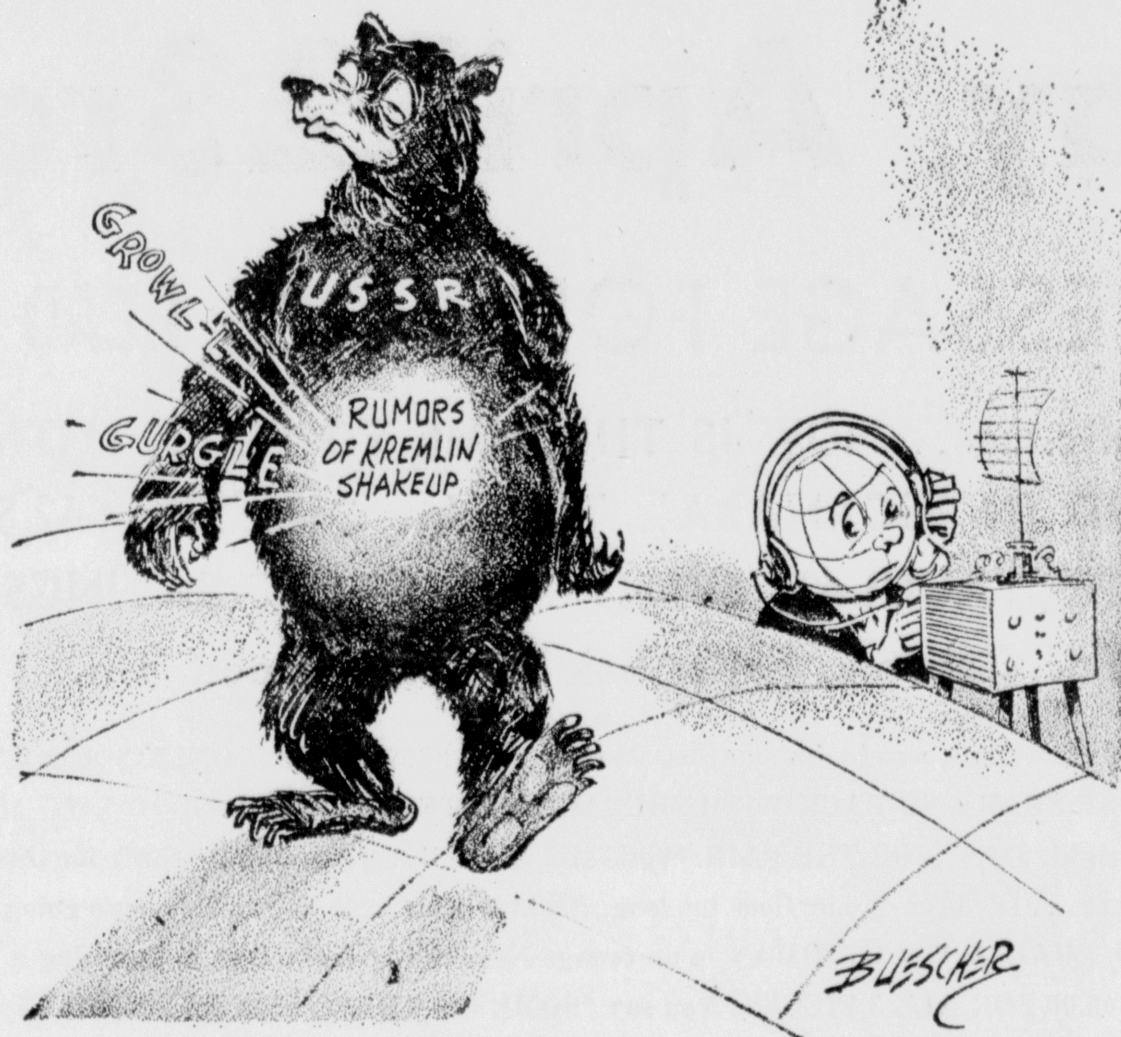

The administration has submitted a bill to Congress which would allow tenants to buy the public housing they live in, with their monthly rent going toward the purchase price. At same time the Secretary of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, George Romney, announced that his department would put into effect a law passed by Congress which puts a ceiling on public housing rent. A tenant will not be required to pay more than 25 per cent of his income on public housing. The government will make up costs above that percentage.

"We know from experience that there is just no comparison between the way people maintain their home if they own the unit than if they are just renting," Romney said in urging passage of the tenant-ownership bill. The question that comes to mind is this: Who will pay the bill to buy these public housing units for the tenants? It is reasonable to assume that if public housing tenants could presently afford to buy homes they would not be living in government dwellings. Furthermore HUD contends some 150,000 tenants cannot even afford the rent on public housing.

Frankly, it is doubtful that many tenants will want to buy public housing, most of which was built in barracks-like style. It's also doubtful that they could afford the upkeep, most of which is now paid for by the government. If some do buy public housing units, will they have the money to maintain them? It's not likely, which means that the government will be selling soon-to-be slums unless it hikes subsidies even higher.

The answer, then, is that the taxpayer who has to pay the full cost of his home or rent will end up paying even more tax money than he now does for public housing while many tenants of government housing will have to pay less.

STOMACH-ACHE?

Republicans Need Harmony In Florida

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Gov. Claude Kirk of Florida, who sometimes confuses Republicanism with pyrotechnics, undoubtedly seized a popular issue when he tried to stop the court-ordered school integration plan for Manatee County.

The integration order prescribed extensive cross-busing, carting kids away from their neighborhood schools to distant places past other schools that would have been closer to home. To add insult to injury, the order was imposed at a time when only a couple of months of the school year remained.

And it was not as if Manatee had tried to dodge desegregation; 53 per cent of the black students in the county were already attending classes with white children.

The order seemed all the more arbitrary because it seemed to violate the Nixon formula, which insists on stern desegregation measures within any given school neighborhood but does not prescribe busing where defacto housing patterns result in a lack of racial balance. Other Florida counties have been subjected to the Manatee stringency. And if Charlotte, N. C., was allowed to retreat from a drastic busing plan, why shouldn't Manatee County in Florida be permitted a similar absolution?

With logic on his side, Gov. Kirk certainly had Manatee people pulling for him when he took over the local schools on a plea that he was merely trying to get the issue of forced busing before the U. S. Supreme Court.

A check in Bradenton, the metropolis of Manatee, brought forth the reasonable conjecture that Kirk had gone one-up on Jack Eckerd, a local Tampa Bay area business man hero, for the inside track in the forthcoming Republican primary for the gubernatorial nomination. A similar check in the Orlando area attested to the popularity of the Kirk stance.

A very possible trouble, however, is that Kirk didn't get away with his pyrotechnics. He backed down somewhat ignominiously when he was threatened with a big fine for each day that he kept the rightful school board from exercising its authority in Manatee. He had said he'd go to jail, but he couldn't take the threatened money penalty.

So how does he emerge politically from the go-around? You can get a lot of opinions, depending on which part of Florida you survey. No doubt the governor has sewed up segregationist support by his original action. But, where this might help him if he switched parties and ran in a Democratic primary, how much good will it do him as a Republican in a state where the majority of the Republicans are transplanted Northerners?

As an outlander I wouldn't presume to guess where the balance lies. But an interesting point has been raised in Tallahassee, the Florida capital. In seizing the power to run the school system even for a few days in a Florida county, Kirk had, so the argument goes, acted entirely outside his authority. The unconstitutional precedent could be disarming.

What if a future governor, angry at the local fiscal picture, were to remove the tax assessor in one or more counties? What if he were to purge the local rolls?

Come to think of it, it is hardly consistent for a States' Righter, which is what Kirk declared himself to be when he defied the Federal court, to ride roughshod over county rights. Sober reflection might, before the Florida Republican primary is here, dim the advantage Kirk has derived from a momentarily popular stand.

As the incumbent governor, Kirk has an advantage over his Republican rivals, Jack Eckerd and State Sen. L. A. "Skip" Bafalis. He has done well in polls. He can undoubtedly raise the money to give Eckerd a real battle, even though Eckerd is a rich man. Bafalis, a good conservative, must use the power of persuasion to compete in the race, for he lacks the funds available to the others.

Regardless of how the struggle for Republican power comes out, the party infighting could throw things in the state

back to the Democrats.

Republican Congressman William Cramer should be a shooin for U. S. Senator, but Kirk wants his own man, Lt. Gov. Ray Osborne, in Washington, and the senior Florida U. S. Senator, Ed Gurney, is anti-Cramer.

It's all too bad; the Republicans need harmony in Florida to make sure of that second Senatorial seat.

BURNING UNDERWEAR

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) —It doesn't pay to set your underwear afire in a national forest in New Mexico.

The U. S. Forest Service said it has billed Troy Wayne Klaus, 19, of Albuquerque for $51.22. This was the cost to the Forest Service for putting out a fire started by burning underwear.

A Forest Service ranger said Klaus and three friends used their underwear on sticks as torches to light their way along a trail. Bits of the burning cloth ignited patches of grass and pine needles.

Market Letter Writers Beginning To See Light

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Their impatience understandable after 72 long weeks of eroding prices, the men who write the stock market letters seem to have discovered the end of the tunnel. They see light.

Pin them down and they'll concede they see few direct rays piercing the gloom, such as would emanate from reports of rising corporate profits. Profits are down, and could continue poor for many weeks more.

The light, more likely, is projected by their own thinking, which to a great degree is predicated on the assumption that when the gloom is thickest the spirit should grow bright.

This is how the disposition is expressed by Harold Dorsey, founder of Argus Research, one of the largest suppliers of investment information to institutions and brokers:

"This writer came into Wall Street on July 1, 1929. As a result of over 40 years of experience in investment advisory work, I can make other general observations that would seem to be appropriate at the moment. "When the confidence factor reaches the stage of ebullience and excessive speculation, we are almost invariably around the top of a bull market.

"When despair becomes so deep that it represents an unreasonable balance of the pros and cons, and when it appears that the securities business is just about finished, and when it is concluded that the investing public will never again come back into the market, we are around the bottom of a bear market."

The trouble, says Dorsey, is that it is difficult to judge when the despair is most intense. There are many indicators, however, that can provide a fair idea of the depths of discouragement.

one. A high P-E ratio, meaning the number of times the earnings can be divided into the price, indicates confidence in the future. A low one, such as now, indicates pessimism.

A year ago the P-E ratio of the 30 stocks that make up the Dow Jones Industrial Average was 16. Earlier this month it was about 14. Last Friday it was only 13.6, indicating extreme gloom. Seldom has it been worse.

Plans for a series of discussions in Escanaba and Delta County designed to give better understanding of the San Francisco Conference and the Dumbarton Oaks proposals will be made at meetings to be held Wednesday afternoon and evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Len Case were guests of honor at a farewell party given by Mrs. Case's mother, Mrs. Ed Frappier, at her home, 1607 N. 20th St. Friends and relatives who were guests played cards and a lunch was served.

50 Years Ago

Pierce Narcisse Bouré, 70, of Escanaba, probably is the oldest man ever to file a declaration of his intention to become a citizen of the United States, in the Delta County naturalization court. Bouré is a native of Canada and came to the U.S. in 1900 from Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

What is destined to be a most instructive and interesting meeting will be held in Escanaba, according to arrangements completed here. This will be a meeting of the Upper Peninsula Dental Society.

Opening lead—five of hearts. Ask any bridge player for his favorite hand and he'll probably choose some relatively unimportant deal in which he played a giant role of a hero because he succeeded in putting something over on the opponents.

You'd think that most players would choose a hand where they executed some far-out triple squeeze or quadruple grand coup, but no, it turns out that the hand they relish most was one where they thoroughly bamboozled the opposition and ran off with all the swag.

Here is the type of hand they might choose. It was played in a national championship and South was Marshall Miles of San Bernardino, Calif., who in recent years has made many highly valuable contributions to the literature and theory of the game and who is also known as an unusually imaginative competitor.

He was playing with his favorite partner, Edwin Kantar, when this hand came along. It is hard to justify his two no-trump rebid, but you can't really quarrel with it when you consider the result Miles achieved.

West led a heart—which was normal enough—and Miles went right up with the ace and returned the king of clubs.

East ducked — which was also quite normal — and now Miles had something to talk about. He quickly cashed seven spades to rack up three no-trump, and he was the only one in the field to score a game with the North-South clubs.

You can't really blame East for ducking the club — almost anyone else in his shoes would have done the same—but had East been sufficiently inspired, he would have grabbed the ace and held declarer to five tricks instead of nine. But then we'd have had no story, so perhaps we should all give thanks to East for having made Miles' brilliant coup possible.

Ann Landers

Wife, An Alcoholic; Man 'Goat' In Issue

Dear Ann Landers: You frequently advise women who are married to alcoholics who refuse to help themselves to "throw the bum out."

What do you advise when the drunk is a wife? My life has been pure hell for 11 years because my wife is a boozier. The law won't let me kick her out. My lawyer says if I leave, the courts will give her half of everything I have. I know this is true because a friend of mine walked out on his alcoholic wife. She now lives in a $50,000 home and he is holed up in a dump. He has to give his wife half of everything he makes. Is this justice? — Trapped In Georgia

Dear Georgia: When a man marries, he has a legal obligation to support his wife. The divorce laws in some states, however, are grossly unfair to husbands. I believe they should be changed. When the wife is better equipped to make a living for reasons of health and training, and when no children are involved, the wife should not get half of whatever he earns, come hell or high water, for the rest of her natural life.

Dear Ann Landers: Glad you printed the letter from the guy who never looked sideways at a certain girl but who attached herself to him like a suction cup, pestered his family and hunted him down all over town. I thought I was the only one.

There's this woman, Ann, whose name I couldn't even spell. Suddenly she picked me out for her husband. If she spots me in public I am finished. She has eyes like a hawk and can find me in a stadium that holds 30,000 people. She sent me a birthday gift, Christmas gift, a Valentine gift, cards for Lincoln's birthday, George Washington's birthday and Columbus Day. She has told my family she's going to marry me—as soon as I come to my senses and realize I'm in love with her.

The sad part of it is I might have married her if she hadn't chased me. She is rich and attractive—until she puts on her track shoes. Why are some women so stupid? They spoil it for themselves.—Oklahoma

No 'Simplistic Solutions' For Environment: Jamrich

MARQUETTE—Dr. John X. Jamrich, president of Northern Michigan University, said Tuesday night in his opening address for the university's Environmental Teach-In that answers to the problems of environment will "not be found with simplistic solutions."

"What seems to me to be the fundamental goal and purpose of these deliberations," Jamrich said, "is the development of an awareness of the environmental problems now confronting us; of the factual and scientific basis of these problems; and of a scientific and systematic basis of the directions to take in seeking solutions to these problems."

"For some, the idea of research application via the university is considered to be the wrong role for these institutions. Others maintain that the university must move even further into the arena of research, providing for its application and, even more importantly, somehow measuring the implication of research as to its good or bad effects on humanity."

"Though attractive at first glance, the latter position is first of all unrealistic in that we have few, if any, useful criteria of prejudging usefulness of newly discovered knowledge, and just as little factual basis for determining in advance the potential good or harm of new developments."

"And where would one be in this process of judgment and decision?" the president asked.

"Would we have prevented Einstein from publicizing his work on atomic energy; would we have prevented the study of radioactive elements in the 19th century; would we have hidden from the atom? Bohr model of the atom?"

"If so, would we not have been acting precisely in the same manner as the man of medieval Europe in his reaction to Galileo and others?"

Power Problems

Jamrich pointed to the use of nuclear-power in generating electricity and our awareness of its contribution to environmental pollution. "One simple

Daniel H. Safford

Regular Trout Season To Open; Streams High

Michigan's regular trout season, eagerly awaited by most trout fishermen, opens Saturday, but high water is expected to plague stream fishermen in the Upper Peninsula.

Size limit on all trout and salmon, except brook trout, is 10 inches, the Department of Natural Resources said. Brook trout taken from inland waters may be 7 inches or over, but those taken in the Great Lakes must also conform to the 10-inch limit.

Possession limit is five singly or in combination, except that five additional brook trout may be taken and possessed from streams.

Most of the streams have only recently become free of ice, officers reported, and water levels are high throughout the U.P.

Lakes May Be Best

As is customarily true in early spring, trout lakes probably will produce the best results, officers indicated. It is expected, however, that some northern lakes may still have a deteriorating ice cover and access in some instances will be difficult due to remaining snow.

No perch or smelt runs have developed as yet, the DNR reported, although smelt runs could be underway by the weekend. Early steelhead runs have not fully developed, but some fish are being taken off the mouths of Lake Superior streams.

Coho salmon fishing is reported good in the upper harbor at Marquette near the mouth of the Dead River and at the city power plant in the lower harbor.

Lakes managed for trout in the Delta - Marquette - Alger county area are:

Alger County - Addis Lake and Pond, Cherry, Hike, Irwin, East and West John, Rock, Trueman, Violet, Pine, Cole Creek Pond, Kingston Pond, Valley Spur Pond, Ponds in 25,46-20, Ponds in 30,46-17, Unnamed Lake in SE SE, 14, 44-19 and Sullivan Pond in 21,49-15.

Delta County - Carr Ponds, Lake 23, Schawee, Spring, Square, Wintergreen and Zig-maul Pond.

Marquette County - Airport, Belding, Clear, Cliff, Club, Cranberry, Hascib, Hawkins Pond, Haywire, Hemmings, Island, Just, Lake 41, Log, Moccasin, Morgan Pond, North Rock Sec. 14, Sec. 28, Swanzy and Big Trout.

Pickled Liquor May Be Answer To Pollution

DETROIT (AP) — The new antipollution cocktail: Mix seven parts of pickle liquor to 100,000 parts sewage; scrape the brown sludge from the bottom of the container and put it aside.

Then throw the drink into the Detroit River.

The mixture is better for the river than its individual parts have been in the past, according to officials of the Great Lakes Steel division of National Steel Corp. and the City of Detroit sewage treatment specialists.

Pickle liquor is a waste product of the steel-making process. It is basically a ferrous chloride solution, used to clean steel.

The sewage being treated by the pickle liquor has already gone through the treatment processes of the city's plant.

The treated sewage — before pickle liquor — has been blamed for contributing to the rapid growth of algae which, in turn, rob a body of water of its oxygen supply and—in critical periods—result in fish kills. The phosphates in the treated sewage nourish algae growth.

The pickle liquor, Great Lakes officials said today, tend to cancel the phosphates through chemical reaction.

City officials claimed the new treatment eliminates as much as 80 per cent of the phosphates from the treated sewage.

The treatment was developed over a four-year period by the city said Joseph A. Urban, chief engineer at the sewage plant.

The firm had been ordered by the Michigan Water Resources Commission to eliminate pickle liquor discharges in to the river.

Effects of the pickle liquor pollution included discoloration of the river water. The commission had ordered the city to cut phosphate discharges into the Detroit River by 80 per cent.

The brown sludge created in the chemical reaction is dehydrated and burned. The inert ashes are then buried.

NMU Veep Says He Was Held Prisoner By Black Students

MARQUETTE (AP) — A vice president of Northern Michigan University has testified that he was held prisoner against his will by black students staging a sit-in demonstration last December.

The witness, Allen Niemi, testified Tuesday at the District Court trial of six NMU students charged with creating a disturbance.

Niemi identified the defendants as among the some 75 students who invaded and ransacked his office, broke windows and damaged equipment.

Niemi said he was held for about 45 minutes, during which time he was ordered to drop the telephone when he tried to call police and told to "sit down if you know what's good for you."

One of the black students, he testified, was carrying a stick about 30 inches long and another held a rod four to five feet long.

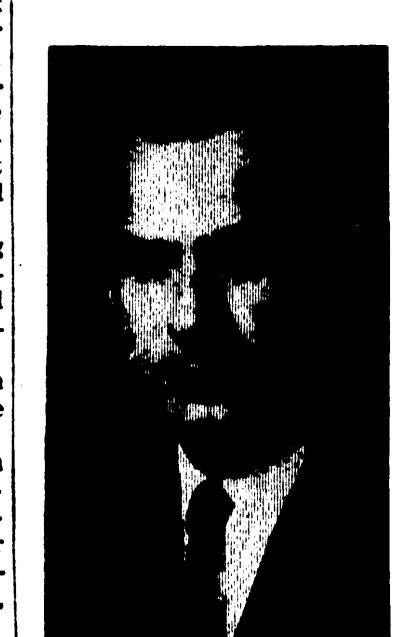

The demonstrators were protesting a recommendation by the NMU Student Judiciary Committee that another Negro student be suspended for having a girl in his dormitory room.

While the sit-in was being staged, the faculty-student judiciary committee overturned the suspension. The demonstrators then ended their protest.

An all-white jury of six women and two men is hearing the case before Judge George Hill.

Defendants are Vernon Umalls, Marquette; David Williams, Detroit; Patrick Williams, Saginaw; Christopher Poole, Clarkston; Phillip Harper, Inkster; and Loren Lobban, New Rochelle, N.Y.

Don Scott is secretary-treasurer.

Gary Cyr and Dan Boyle were elected to two year terms on the club's Board of Directors. They will join the other officers, and holdover directors Jack Magnusson and Elmer Bonifas on the board.

Charles Burke, manager of the American Cyanamid plant near the Escanaba Paper Co., talked about American Cyanamid's operations in the United States in a report that featured color slides of many of the company's products and plants.

Burke said the Escanaba division was constructed in Escanaba to provide the Mead Corp. with chemicals needed at the expanded Publishing Papers Center of the Escanaba Paper Co. He said the plant also supplies other customers in the area.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the Escanaba Area Public High School in Room C-214, using the northeast entrance. Persons interested in the lapidary arts and earth sciences will be welcome.

Journal Dedicated To Fred Gasparick

The Board of Trustees of Summer Science, Inc., has dedicated the second volume of the "Summer Science Journal" to the late Fred Gasparick of Bark River.

Gasparick, who was a deputy sheriff with the Delta County Sheriff's Department, died this winter.

"Mr. Gasparick devoted his lifetime to service of his family, his fellowmen and the society at large," the dedicatory message asserts. "Summer Science Camp and its students, past and future, are fortunate that Mr. Gasparick recognized and most vigorously supported the programs and goals of the camp."

"Mr. Gasparick spent many long hours in a volunteer effort to benefit the Summer Science programs, for which all of those who teach and study on Summer Island will be forever grateful. "It is the wish of the Summer Science, Inc., Board of Trustees that this second volume of the "Summer Science Journal" be a lasting memorial to one who has contributed so much."

The Summer Science Journal is a compilation of papers written by students at the Summer Science camp on Big Summer Island off the tip of the Garden Peninsula.

Nixon In Bind Over Aid Plea

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cambodia's reported urgent renewal of its plea for U.S. arms aid in its struggle against the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese has put President Nixon in a delicate diplomatic and political bind.

The President is considering the appeal, disclosed Tuesday night by administration sources.

A similar request for weapons and other material was made last week by the new Cambodian regime.

Nixon has taken a position against widening U.S. involvement in Southeast Asia and is under congressional pressure to adhere to this policy, even though the Phnom Penh government of Premier Lon Nol did not ask for troops.

And the administration wants to avoid any charges that Cambodia has given up its neutralist role by linking up militarily with the United States.

Yet there is little doubt Cambodia is having a difficult time handling attacks by the Viet Cong-North Vietnamese elements and Nixon does not want a Communist takeover of the tiny nation that neighbors Vietnam.

One possible out being studied by the administration is the possibility of an international arrangement to provide aid to Cambodia with an eye toward supporting the Phnom Penh government's neutrality.

Lawmakers Set Quitting Date

LANSING (AP) — Looking toward August primary elections and the Nov. 5 showdown at the polls, Michigan senators have adopted a schedule that calls for recessing the 1970 session on June 26.

The measure still faces consideration in the House, where Speaker William Ryan, D-Detroit, has opposed any deadline setting for the current legislative session.

The Senate-passed resolution calls for lawmakers to meet through June 26, then recess until two days after the primary election. They would meet only Aug. 6, then recess again until Dec. 29.

Final deadline for introduction of all bills except appropriations measures requested by official committees would be Monday.

Under the Senate-written schedule, May 15 would be the final day for passage of bills in the house of origin, except taxation and executive budget measures. Deadline for those would be June 12.

Final day for passage of all bills would be June 19.

The week beginning June 22 would be earmarked for conference reports and other "house-cleaning" work.

No 'Simplistic Solutions' For Environment: Jamrich

MARQUETTE—Dr. John X. Jamrich, president of Northern Michigan University, said Tuesday night in his opening address for the university's Environmental Teach-In that answers to the problems of environment will "not be found with simplistic solutions."

"What seems to me to be the fundamental goal and purpose of these deliberations," Jamrich said, "is the development of an awareness of the environmental problems now confronting us; of the factual and scientific basis of these problems; and of a scientific and systematic basis of the directions to take in seeking solutions to these problems."

"For some, the university has moved too rapidly in carrying on research; for others, the response of the university to social and technological needs has been much too slow."

Research At Issue

"For some, the idea of research application via the university is considered to be the wrong role for these institutions. Others maintain that the university must move even further into the arena of research, providing for its application and, even more importantly, somehow measuring the implication of research as to its good or bad effects on humanity.

"Though attractive at first glance, the latter position is first of all unrealistic in that we have few, if any, useful criteria of prejudging usefulness of newly discovered knowledge, and just as little factual basis for determining in advance the potential good or harm of new developments."

"And where would one be in this process of judgment and decision?" the president asked.

"Would we have prevented Einstein from publicizing his work on atomic energy; would we have prevented the study of radioactive elements in the 19th century; would we have hidden from sight the Bohr model of the atom?"

"If so, would we not have been acting precisely in the same manner as the man of medieval Europe in his reaction to Galileo and others?"

Power Problems

Jamrich pointed to the use of nuclear-power in generating electricity and our awareness of its contribution to environmental pollution. "One simple solution," he noted, "would be to declare a moratorium on the construction of all nuclear-generated power."

"But consider the social benefits factor."

"One nuclear prototype, producing 1,000 megawatts of electrical power, will also produce twice the output of ammonia and phosphorous of the largest fertilizer factory now in operation in the United States. Such production would supply the fertilizer need for an agricultural operation sufficient to feed more than two million persons."

"The ends would not be considered as justifying the means," Jamrich said, "but we must give attention to the foregoing type of social benefit result, and if it is deemed important enough, exert maximum energy and effort in seeking a solution to the negative effects of the power production effort."

"I want to indicate again my personal enthusiasm and support for the efforts of this group and for the goals which have been identified," Jamrich said.

"At the same time, I have to repeat my caution that the full understanding of the problems is a complex matter, and the specification of the solutions is dependent upon the utilization of our fullest scientific and technological abilities."

The Bay de Noc Gem and Mineral Club will plan exhibits for the Upper Peninsula Gem and Mineral Show, at its meeting on Thursday, April 23. A panel discussion on exhibits will explain how to exhibit gems, jewelry, minerals and fossils at the show. There will also be a report on dealers and publicity for the show, which the club will host on July 17-19.

Jerry Collegon will give a short talk, and a slide program on "Utah Trips and Treasures" will show topaz, geodes, petrified wood and other gems and minerals of Utah.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the Escanaba Area Public High School in Room C-214, using the northeast entrance. Persons interested in the lapidary arts and earth sciences will be welcome.

Daniel H. Safford

Safford Named To West Point

Congressman Philip E. Ruppe today announced that Daniel Hugh Safford has been selected for an appointment as a cadet at the United States Military Academy West Point, New York for the Class of 1974.

Safford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Safford, Rte. 3, Rapid River, is a member of the senior class at Rapid River High School. He is an honor student, member of the school's varsity basketball, track, and cross country teams, attended Wolverine Boys' State at Michigan State University, East Lansing, and represented Rapid River High School at "Trees of Tomorrow" camp, Eagle River, Wis. He also has been a 4-H Club member for eight years, participating for four years at State Show held at Michigan State University. He is a 4-H state demonstration winner in entomology.

Safford also is a member of Rapid River Congregational Church and president of the church's Youth Fellowship.

Journal Dedicated To Fred Gasparick

The Board of Trustees of Summer Science, Inc., has dedicated the second volume of the "Summer Science Journal" to the late Fred Gasparick of Bark River.

Gasparick, who was a deputy sheriff with the Delta County Sheriff's Department, died this winter.

"Mr. Gasparick devoted his lifetime to service of his family, his fellowmen and the society at large," the dedicatory message asserts "Summer Science Camp and its students, past and future, are fortunate that Mr. Gasparick recognized and most vigorously support the programs and goals of the camp."

"Mr. Gasparick spent many long hours in a volunteer effort to benefit the Summer Science programs, for which all of those who teach and study on Summer Island will be forever grateful."

"It is the wish of the Summer Science, Inc., Board of Trustees that this second volume of the 'Summer Science Journal' be a lasting memorial to one who has contributed so much."

The Summer Science Journal is a compilation of papers written by students at the Summer Science camp on Big Summer Island off the tip of the Garden Peninsula.

U-M Glee Club Sings May 5

A varied concert program including classical selections, Broadway tunes, current pop numbers and college favorites is planned by the University of Michigan Men's Glee Club for its appearance at Escanaba.

The Glee Club, directed by Prof. Willis Patterson, will sing at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday, May 5, at William W. Oliver auditorium.

The performance is sponsored by the Escanaba Kiwanis Club in cooperation with the Delta County University of Michigan Alumni Club. Tickets are available from Kiwanis Club members, $1.50 for adults and $1 for students, and at Ernie's Party Store, Gust Asp's and Beck's Western Auto.

Organized in 1859, the Glee Club is the second oldest in the United States. In recent years, the Glee Club has won national and international recognition for excellence, making four international tours since 1955.

The club is composed of both graduate and undergraduate students from every college in the University. Student officers are responsible for managing all Glee Club operations.

District Court

Harold Joseph Levesque, 28, Rte. 1, Escanaba, paid a $15 fine and $9 costs after pleading guilty to possessing a firearm which was not broken.

Arlen A. Pomeroy, 22, Rte. 3, Rapid River, pleaded guilty to a Dept. of Natural Resources charges of setting beaver traps within 50 feet of a beaver lodge and paid a $10 and $10.50 costs.

Ronald W. Johnson, 32, Rte. 2, Rapid River, paid a $50 fine and $16.50 costs and was placed on probation for 24 months after pleading guilty to conservation charges of possessing a spear on a stream closed to spearing.

Wisconsin has more miles of approved snowmobile trails and roads than Interstate Highway mileage.

Regular Trout Season To Open; Streams High

Michigan's regular trout season, eagerly awaited by most trout fishermen, opens Saturday, but high water is expected to plague stream fishermen in the Upper Peninsula.

Size limit on all trout and salmon, except brook trout, is 10 inches, the Department of Natural Resources said. Brook trout taken from inland waters may be 7 inches or over, but those taken in the Great Lakes must also conform to the 10-inch limit.

Possession limit is five singly or in combination, except that five additional brook trout may be taken and possessed from streams.

Most of the streams have only recently become free of ice, officers reported, and water levels are high throughout the U.P.

Lakes May Be Best

As is customarily true in early spring, trout lakes probably will produce the best results, officers indicated. It is expected, however, that some northern lakes may still have a deteriorating ice cover and access in some instances will be difficult due to remaining snow.

No perch or smelt runs have developed as yet, the DNR reported, although smelt runs could be underway by the weekend. Early steelhead runs have not fully developed, but some fish are being taken off the mouths of Lake Superior streams.

Coho salmon fishing is reported good in the upper harbor at Marquette near the mouth of the Dead River and at the city power plant in the lower harbor.

Lakes managed for trout in the Delta - Marquette - Alger county area are:

Pickled Liquor May Be Answer To Pollution

DETROIT (AP) — The new antipollution cocktail: Mix seven parts of pickle liquor to 100,000 parts sewage; scrape the brown sludge from the bottom of the container and put it aside.

Then throw the drink into the Detroit River.

The mixture is better for the river than its individual parts have been in the past, according to officials of the Great Lakes Steel division of National Steel Corp. and the City of Detroit sewage treatment specialists.

Pickle liquor is a waste product of the steel-making process. It is basically a ferrous chloride solution, used to clean steel.

The sewage being treated by the pickle liquor has already gone through the treatment processes of the city's plant.

The treated sewage — before pickle liquor — has been blamed for contributing to the rapid growth of algae which, in turn, rob a body of water of its oxygen supply and—in critical periods—result in fish kills. The phosphates in the treated sewage nourish algae growth.

The pickle liquor, Great Lakes officials said today, tend to cancel the phosphates through chemical reaction.

City officials claimed the new treatment eliminates as much as 80 per cent of the phosphates from the treated sewage.

The treatment was developed over a four-year period by the city said Joseph A. Urban, chief engineer at the sewage plant.

The firm had been ordered by the Michigan Water Resources Commission to eliminate pickle liquor discharges in to the river.

Effects of the pickle liquor pollution included discoloration of the river water. The commission had ordered the city to cut phosphate discharges into the Detroit River by 80 per cent.

The brown sludge created in the chemical reaction is dehydrated and burned. The incinerated ashes are then buried.

Important Letters That Never Arrive

NEW YORK (AP) — Letters the postman rarely brings: "Remember me—Clem Cuthbert, who was voted the clown of our high school class? Well, old Clem hasn't turned out to be such a clown after all. I've hit it rich buying and selling oil wells, and plan to retire at 45 next year. As a retirement gesture, I intend to charter a plane and take all the members of our graduating class and their wives on a two-week vacation trip to Hawaii. Naturally, it'll be my pleasure to pick up all the tabs, and I do hope that you and your wife will be able—" surpass, in my opinion, the early work of Grandma Moses. Would you give me permission to put 20 or 30 on long-term exhibit, with the prices ranging from $250 to $500 each?"

"Our computer, after checking the attitudes and aptitudes of 15,000 single girls in its files, finds the one most likely to be your true soulmate is Miss Elvira Parsley, beautiful heiress to one of the country's largest fortunes. Miss Parsley has been shown your photograph and says she can hardly wait to meet you in person. She has allowed us to inform you that her phone number is—"

You are guaranteed to merit raise if you hit him up for one at exactly 3:31 next Tuesday afternoon. Remember, the stars never fail."

"I suppose you'll be glad to know, Dad, that I've made up my mind, after considerable soul searching, to drop out of our college revolutionary group. The fact is I'm going steady now with a girl who has convinced me it's more fun to hold hands than to throw rocks."

Overhaul Of Postal System Came To Light With Strike

Editor's Note: Postal reform looms larger, but Americans are still asking: Why is our mail service so lousy? This comprehensive account answers that question and details what postal reform will mean.

By MARK BROWN

WASHINGTON (AP) — For almost two centuries the grey-haired men have lived by their credo, taken from the ancient Greece of Herodotus: "Neither snow nor rain nor heat nor gloom of night shall stay these couriers from the swift completion of their appointed rounds."

And when, for the first time in the nation's history, the mails did not move, the U.S. Post Office could blame neither snow nor rain nor heat nor gloom of night.

System Unveiled

Instead, it was a combination of everyday issues—wages, working conditions and job advancement—that brought last month's mail-sharling wildcat walkout by 185,000 of the Post Office's 750,000 employees.

It brought into focus as never before the rickety postal system that effects every American who mails a letter, subscribes to a magazine, pays his taxes.

And it fueled a drive to drastically overhaul the Post Office Department.

The House Post Office Committee opens hearings today on Nixon's plan to set up a new U.S. Postal Service "insulated from direct control by the President, the Bureau of the Budget and Congress."

Questions Arise

But against the backdrop of coming postal reform—and the prospect of higher postal rates—Americans are asking questions:

What is wrong with the American mail service? What could make a letter mailed to an address fewer than 100 steps away take days to deliver? What makes magazines and newspapers arrive days and even weeks late, packages reach their destinations late with contents often bruised or broken and vital business communications dribble tardily in?

"It's the system," answers Winton A. (Red) Blount, the tall, rambunctious Alabama whom Nixon appointed postmaster general and assigned the task of reshaping the postal service.

The system Blount decries still retains vestiges of the Post Office created by the First Continental Congress in 1775 and entrusted to the first postmaster general, Benjamin Franklin.

Over the ensuing 195 years, the Post Office has become enmeshed in a snarl of rules, regulations and laws that places responsibility with the Postmaster General but the pursestrings with Congress, puts politics ahead of performance and has resulted in a postwar budget deficit of nearly $17 billion.

Faced with a mushrooming burden of mail—the volume has risen from 71 billion pieces in fiscal 1965 to 82 billion in fiscal 1969—the Post Office has responded by reflex: add more men.

While productivity in American industry has risen at an average rate of 3.4 per cent a year, postal productivity has inched along at two-tenths of 1 per cent a year.

Investment Lower

One reason is a lack of work boosting machines. The average investment per postal worker is $1,145 while the similar figure for the telephone and telegraph industry is $35,630; for power utilities $151,710, transportation $25,053, manufacturing $7,170 and merchandising $2,836.

"Airmail was the last major innovation in the Post Office Department, and that was 52 years ago," said a postal official.

Volume Increases

The massive increase in mail volume has forced postal officials to plug the service gap with substitutes and part time employees—most of whom are called in to handle the after 5 p.m. rush.

"Congress has passed a law setting a ratio of one career substitute for every five regular postal employees," said James Rademacher, head of the National Association of Letter Carriers. "There is now on the rolls one substitute for every 2 1/2 regulars. Half of them are temporary. It's been going on for years."

Much of the Post Office's logistics problems can be traced to the public's mailing habits. More than half of a typical large-city post office's volume is received in the two hours after 5 p.m.

Must Work Fast

"When that after 5 crush hits, you've got to do 24 hours' work in two hours," said a Post Office Department spokesman.

Business, which accounts for 75 per cent of all mail, is the worst offender, department officials said.

The two centuries of neglect have fallen heavily upon those postal stalwarts whose functions have remained virtually unchanged from the days of Benjamin Franklin—the nearly 200,000 mail carriers and the more than 300,000 postal clerks who still sort by hand the letters and parcels they stuff into antiquated pigeon-holes. And among the first to admit it is the Post Office itself.

Personal Relations Bad

"Personnel relations in the Post Office are back in the 19th Century," said Kenneth A. Housman, assistant postmaster general for personnel.

"Progressive, modern personnel relations have completely bypassed the Post Office."

"In the past their Post Office could count, by virtue of their no-strike status, on the loyalty of its people. It offered security. When you take away the right to strike, you must provide your people with the best possible personnel plan. Instead, they have been literally nicked and dimed to death."

Rabies Epidemic Hits Sault Area

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP) — An outbreak of rabies which has caused 14 persons in nearby Canada and three in the Upper Peninsula area to take anti-rabies inoculations, has been termed an epidemic by state and county officials.

Four foxes and one dog were recently confirmed as rabid in Michigan.

Dr. Donald Coonan, acting director of the epidemiology division of the Michigan Health Department, said the outbreak was the worst in Michigan since 1958-59.

All cats and dogs in the Chippewa County area have been quarantined for 30 days.

Byard Raeburn, postmaster of Sault Ste. Marie, said his mail carriers were instructed not to deliver mail to any address where a cat or dog is unconfined.

"When you get four or five cases very quickly — like in a month — you've got troubles," said Coonan.

Dr. Charles Russo, director of the county's health department, said Tuesday that the first posi-

WSU, MSU Set Earth Day Plans

By The Associated Press

Major observances of Earth Day are planned for Wayne State University in Detroit and Michigan State University in East Lansing, where environmental teaching will be held today.

Consumer advocate Ralph Naders heads a list of more than 100 speakers scheduled to participate in the Wayne State teach-in.

At Michigan State, the speakers' list is headed by former Interior Secretary Stewart Udall, Gov. William Milliken, Sen. Philip Hart, Rep. Donald Riegle and State Sen. Coleman Young.

The Wayne teach-in begins Wednesday morning and is scheduled to run through the evening and all day Thursday. MSU's observance will run all day Wednesday with follow-ups scheduled through the end of May.

Before last month's strike, a starting postal worker made $6,176 a year—less than a New York garbage collector or a Washington, D.C. bus driver. Post-strike legislation gives postal workers pay raises totaling 14 per cent.

In stereotype, the mailman is in constant danger from unfriendly dogs and too friendly housewives. To the mailman, there are other dangers—and they're no joke.

Carriers in urban slums have been attacked and robbed of welfare checks or credit cards with increasing frequency. In New York they often arm themselves or walk their routes in pairs.

"Welfare day," lamented one New York carrier, "is pure hell."

Advancement Slow

In addition to low pay and physical danger, nearly three-fifths of salaried postal employees have risen only five steps toward the top of a 21-step career ladder.

Present Post Office officials blame the low-grade job cluster on past politics.

The walkout by Postal union workers—the first massive revolt against the federal government by its employees—shattered the indifference that usually attends postal matters in Congress; the negotiations that followed apparently convinced the unions collective bargaining with management can produce as good or better results as lobbying key congressmen.

Unlike Nixon's postal corporareform proposal was shaped as much by the unions as the administration.

Want Bill Out

"I want this bill out this month, enacted this month and signed this month," Rademacher declared. "I hate to say this because it sounds like I'm trying to pressure Congress, but if we don't have a bill very soon, I'm afraid we'll have another uprising."

Considered the heart of the bill by union and Post Office officials alike as the collective bargaining provision. Strikes still would be illegal, but negotiating impasses would be settled through binding arbitration.

The reform measure crumbles another cornerstone of the prison confining postal operations—the inability of the Post Office to come up with money to finance modern physical facilities and introduce large scale mechanization.

Board Sale Approved

The bill authorizes the postal system to sell up to $10 billion in bonds for capital improvements. Three years ago, when he warned "The Post Office is in a race with catastrophe," former Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien estimated a minimum of $5 billion was needed just to bring postal facilities up to date.

Most larger cities, where the bulk of the nation's mail is handled, have facilities built in the 1930s or earlier.

Sacks Still Heavy

Meanwhile, in all but a handful of the 33,000 post offices throughout the nation, men and women still shoulder heavy mail sacks and perform the mind-boggling routine of sorting.

Utilization of available technology has been slowed by lack of funds. Among the weapons in the Post Office's electronic arsenal is a machine called the optical character reader that can read up to 43,000 addresses an hour, provided they conform to a certain format. But with a price tag exceeding half a million dollars, only 10 are in operation now, with 10 more scheduled for installation this year.

Now in experimental stages is a machine to read coded symbols imprinted on envelopes by operators. Widespread use could enable mail to be sorted down to the order of individual patrons along a carrier's route—not at the post office of distribution, but at the post office of collection.

Yet, even as postal researchers tinker with money-saving machines, the postal deficit mounts. This fiscal year alone, the department lost $1.2 billion.

The President said his new reform plan would put the postal system on a self-paying basis by 1978. He asked Congress to boost first-class letter rates from 6 cents to 8 cents. This would be the fourth postal rate increase in 11 years.

Getting a postage increase through Congress now takes an average of 20 months. Under the postal reorganization plan, the governing nine-man commission would set rates, subject to congressional veto, in one-tenth the time.

Water Safety Eyed

LANSING (AP)—Gov. William Milliken has proclaimed May as Water Safety Education Month in Michigan. Milliken noted that during the 1960s some 2,800 persons drowned in Michigan waters and called that "a staggering statistic which could be drastically reduced through adequate supervision and caution."

The governor also designated May 17-23 as Small Business Week.

Downstate Area Fishing Ban Set

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan Natural Resources Department is clamping an indefinite ban on fishing in five northern Lower Michigan inland waters because of an outbreak of whirling disease.

The ban takes effect Saturday, the opening of Michigan's trout season, for the following Gladwin County waters:

Jose Creek from Sutherland Lake to its confluence with the Tobacco River's north branch; the Tobacco's north branch from an unnamed lake in Section 7 to Beaverton Pond; portions of Spikeshorn Creek; Mosell Creek from Boathouse Lake to Jose Creek; Beaver Creek in Sections 11 and 12.

C. Troy Yoder, regional manager for the department, said the streams would be posted by Saturday to halt spread of the diseases spores by fishermen picking it up on their lines and waders or by dumping entrails of infected fish back into the waters.

Chemical treatment will be used against the disease he said.

Overhaul Of Postal System Came To Light With Strike

Editor's Note: Postal reform looms larger, but Americans are still asking: Why is our mail service so lousy? This comprehensive account answers that question and details what postal reform will mean.

By MARK BROWN

WASHINGTON (AP) — For almost two centuries the grey-garbed men had lived by their credo, taken from the ancient Greece of Herodotus: "Neither snow nor rain nor heat nor gloom of night shall stay these couriers from the swift completion of their appointed rounds."

And when, for the first time in the nation's history, the mails did not move, the U.S. Post Office could blame neither snow nor rain nor heat nor gloom of night.

System Unveiled

Instead, it was a combination of everyday issues—wages, working conditions and job advancement—that brought last month's mail-snarl-wildcat walkout by 185,000 of the Post Office's 750,000 employees.

It brought into focus as never before the rickety postal system that effects every American who mails a letter, subscribes to a magazine, pays his taxes.

And it fueled a drive to drastically overhaul the Post Office Department.

The House Post Office Committee opens hearings today on Nixon's plan to set up a new U.S. Postal Service "insulated from direct control by the President, the Bureau of the Budget and Congress."

Questions Arise

But against the backdrop of coming postal reform—and the prospect of higher postal rates—Americans are asking questions.

What is wrong with the American mail service? What could make a letter mailed to an address fewer than 100 steps away take days to deliver? What makes magazines and newspapers arrive days and even weeks late, packages reach their destinations late with contents often bruised or broken and vital business communications dribble tardily in?

"It's the system," answers Winton A. (Red) Blount, the tall, rawboned Alabamian whom Nixon appointed postmaster general and assigned the task of reshaping the postal service.

The system Blount decries still retains vestiges of the Post Office created by the First Continental Congress in 1775 and entrusted to the first postmaster general, Benjamin Franklin.

Snarl Develops

Over the ensuing 195 years, the Post Office has become enmeshed in a snarl of rules, regulations and laws that places responsibility with the Postmaster General but the pursestrings with Congress, puts politics ahead of performance and has resulted in a postwar budget deficit of nearly $17 billion.

Faced with a mushrooming burden of mail—the volume has risen from 71 billion pieces in fiscal 1965 to $2 billion in fiscal 1969—the Post Office has responded by reflex: add more men.

While productivity in American industry has risen at an average rate of 3.4 per cent a year, postal productivity has inched along at two-tenths of 1 per cent a year.

Investment Lower

One reason is a lack of work boosting machines. The average investment per postal worker is $1.145 while the similar figure for the telephone and telegraph industry is $35,630; for power utilities $151,710, transportation $25,053, manufacturing $7,170 and merchandising $2,836.

"Airmail was the last major innovation in the Post Office Department, and that was 52 years ago," said a postal official.

Volume Increases

The massive increase in mail volume has forced postal officials to plug the service gap with substitutes and part time employees—most of whom are called in to handle the after 5 p.m. rush.

"Congress has passed a law setting a ratio of one career substitute for every five regular postal employees," said James Rademacher, head of the National Association of Letter Carriers. "There is now on the rolls one substitute for every 2 1/2 regulars. Half of them are tempo-

Rabies Epidemic Hits Sault Area

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP) — An outbreak of rabies which has caused 14 persons in nearby Canada and three in the Upper Peninsula area to take anti-rabies inoculations, has been termed an epidemic by state and county officials.

"When you get four or five cases very quickly — like in a month — you've got troubles," said Coohan.

Dr. Charles Russo, director of the county's health department, said Tuesday that the first positive identification of the disease in a domestic animal has been pinpointed in a dog owned by a farm family living near Pickford some 20 miles south of the Soo.

Dr. Russo said a Pickford veterinarian, Dr. William Barber, diagnosed the rabies in the dog during an examination last week. The family had brought the dog to Dr. Barber thinking it had a bone stuck in its throat because it was apparently gagging.

Dr. Barber began taking the series of 14 antirabies inoculations after the diagnosis. He said he feared he might contract the disease through cuts on the hand he stuck into the dog's mouth seeking the nonexistent bone.

Dogs and cats roaming freely in the Upper Peninsula county during the quarantine period will be seized and possibly destroyed, county officials said.

GLADSTONE War Victim Possessed High Regard For Life

MENOMINEE — "This war is not worth my friends' lives, but I'm an American soldier and I'll do my job."

Sgt. Bill Alfredson felt strongly about his duty in Vietnam. He didn't like the war, and he told his father so repeatedly in letters.

"I still love my country but I don't feel we are fighting a just war. We've got to get out of this place. Freedom is okay but these people here don't care about anything but our money and our 'C' rations and our smokes."

In a letter written just two weeks ago, he told about his friends getting killed, and how much it affected him emotionally.

Last week Bill Alfredson joined his friends. He died on a battlefield in Vietnam.

In a letter written a week ago to his father, Agnar Alfredson of Lena, Wis., he said:

"Last Tuesday I lost three men and had seven more wounded. We got hit by our own big guns. Three rounds were off 600 meters on a misplaced gun . . . and my platoon took a direct hit. Two men took a direct hit. God, I've never been so sick in my life as I was when I came to and saw that sight."

"I was 15 meters, maybe 12 meters, and lucky enough to be just downhill. So I'm okay. Speedy was the third man to die. I and two other men worked on him but was no good. He lost his arm and had 15 holes in his body and was in shock. It took 45 minutes to get a Medvac Bird (helicopter). He died in my arms. Boy, would that shake a guy up."

"I shook so bad I had to take some pills to calm down. Sort of getting used to seeing my friends die, but no one can ever say he is ever used to that stuff."

"I now have a real love for my life," Sgt. Alfredson wrote to his father, "and I dig a very big fox hole at night. I find myself getting after my men when they goof up or sleep on guard."

I guess you sort of grow up over here.

"I'm going to stick it out and see about coming home alive."

Sgt. Alfredson, who was 21, was killed last Wednesday. News of his death was delivered Monday to his father and to his mother, Mrs. Kenneth Evans of Gladstone. Two days before he was killed, one of his friends met death in Vietnam. He was Spec. 4 James J. Cook, 20, Gladstone.

Mrs. Weeter Is PTA President

Mrs. Harold Weeter was installed as president of the Gladstone PTA at the regular meeting on Monday evening at the new gymnasium. Other officers installed by Mrs. Marvin Larson, Past President, were: First Vice - President, Mrs. Thomas Eleger; Second Vice President, James A. Johnson; Secretary, Mrs. Norman Boutlier; Treasurer, The Rev. Gaylord Wright; and Historian, Mrs. James Featherston.

The program was a physical education demonstration which was in charge of Mrs. Frances Wagner and James Barrett.

Mrs. Harold Anderson asked for volunteers to circulate petitions regarding parochialism. This is for the purpose of getting the issue on the ballot for the November election. Interested parties may call 8-9451.

The PTA will sponsor a smorgasbord on May 18th at 6 p. m. at the James T. Jones Cafeteria. For tickets contact the following: Mrs. Leroy Marki, 5-0382, Mrs. Robert Rivard, 8-9552, Mrs. Thomas Eleger, 5-6421, or Mrs. Harold Weeter, 5-1541. This will be for adults only at $1.50 per plate.

Room count winners were Mrs. Peterson's 2nd grade, Mrs. Erickson's morning kindergarten, and Mrs. Westman's 5th Grade.

Lunch was served by the mothers of the Kindergarten pupils.

Briefly Told

Pupils of Mrs. Helene Merki will be presented in recital at 7:30 p. m. on Thursday at the First Lutheran Church. Thirty-six pupils of voice, piano, and organ will be performing.

Pram Program Plans Complete

The popular Pram program will once again be initiated this summer. It was decided at a meeting of the Gladstone Recreation Committee, held on Monday evening at the City Hall. An order for 12 prams was submitted to put the program into operation.

Barbara Marshall was hired as instructor of the program which is sponsored by the City Recreation Department and the Community Schools. Another person will be hired at a later date. As in the past the program will be well supervised.

The program is open to students ages 8 to 18, and they must have parental permission to participate.

Ten prams have been donated to date but the committee ordered 12 on the assumption that interested individuals would make donations for the remaining two. Anyone interested in making a donation may call Ray Norton at 425-2511 or 425-3971.

Each pram costs $240.00 so $480.00 is needed to pay for them. Life jackets will also be needed for the children. At the announcement of the need for funds, Cleve Krout, Sr., started the ball rolling with a $10.00 donation.

The following have donated prams at present: City Commission and Yacht Club, 2 each; Rotary, Lions, Community Schools, Gladstone State Savings and First National Bank, Dehlin, Olson, Maniaci Clinic, and George Matt of Gladstone Marine, one each. Any size donation will be appreciated.

4-H Club Plans Business Meet

The Gladstone Pioneer's 4-H Club will hold a business meeting on Thursday at 7 p. m. at the City Hall. Certificates of achievement will be awarded to members completing winter project work.

Discussion of summer project work will be held at this meeting. Enrollment in any area will depend on volunteer leadership of adults and teenagers. Project areas being considered for summer work are crafts, conservation, horticulture, foods, entomology, dog care and training, natural beauty, photography, recreation, child care, and leadership.

Adults or teen-agers interested in working with the youth in any area of leadership are invited to attend this meeting. Persons desiring more information may contact Mrs. Robert Walker at 425-0971.

Massive Food Contamination Probe KO's Numerous Products

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has initiated the voluntary market removal of 13.9 million servings of a nationally known soup mixture because of food poisoning danger.

Also since January, it has spurred industry recalls of 334,000 pounds of popcorn packed by a Milford, Ill., firm; of 24,000 nationally-distributed frozen strawberry pies manufactured by a Columbus, Ohio, baker; and of 2,000 cases of a name-brand candy. All were contaminated with insect or rodent material, or both.

Other Food Items

Other food items recalled in the past three months because of contamination in certain brands and lots include dried eggs, anchovies, noodles, raisins, frozen fried chicken, peanut butter, pimentos, pizzas and cooked mushrooms.

The recalls are never totally successful, according to a spokesman for the Food and Drug Administration. Some of the products are purchased and consumed. The agency can't specify how many.

"Today's scientific knowledge, working through good laws to protect consumers, assures the safety and wholesomeness of every component of the American food supply," says the FDA, and indeed the great majority of foods, health supplies and cosmetics sold to the public are safe and wholesome.

40 Per Cent Inspected

The National Academy of Sciences says, however, FDA inspects only 40 per cent of the 64,000 interstate food processing plants subject to federal checking, and the agency itself estimates that 20 per cent of the plants are in substantial violation of government standards.

The most spectacular recall this year has been the 13.9 million servings of these nationally distributed, cartoned, Lipton soups: Perky Noodle Soup Mix, Chicken Vegetable Soup Mix, Ring-O-Noodle Soup Mix With Real Chicken Broth, Giggle Noodle Soup With Real Chicken Broth—test marketed in New England only—Beef Flavor Noodle Soup With Vegetables.

Soups Contaminated

All the soups were contaminated with a bacteria called salmonella that can cause food poisoning. The organism was traced to the manufacturer of the noodle soup used in the Lipton mixes.

Lipton is recalling the mixes from retail shelves, but the FDA estimated that between 15 and 20 per cent remained on the market as of last week.

The FDA's weekly recall reports for this year show such other health-related product defects as:

—21 instances of contaminated batches of cosmetics, versus 11 in all of 1969. Most of the contaminants found, among other places in eye liner and cologne, were bacteria that can cause skin infections.

Exploding Base

—Candle holder whose base explodes when the candle burns low.

—Drugs of varying potency that were mislabeled, encased in tubes that leaked or lacked an essential ingredient.

—Such supposedly sterile hospital supplies as sponges, scalpels and catheters that were contaminated.

Tuesday night the FDA warned against eating a brand of prepared pizzas distributed by the Roman Inn Pizza Co., throughout the upper Midwest. The FDA said mushrooms in some of the 80,000 "Roman Deluxe Italian Brand" pizzas produced this month are suspected of causing botulism, an acute food poisoning that can be fatal.

Pizzas Recalled

Roman Inn Pizza has been recalling the pizza, the FDA said, but "since distribution has been so widespread and has gone on for several weeks a public warning is considered necessary."

The 24,000 Mountain Top Frozen Strawberry Pies were recalled, the FDA said, because of "rodent contamination of fruit used as a raw material."

The recall of 2,000 cases of Russell Stover Candies distributed in Missouri, Nebraska and Indiana was caused by "rodent and insect infestation of plant and rodent and insect hairs and fragments found in samples," the FDA said.

Popcorn Involved

The agency attributed the recall of the 334,000 pounds of popcorn to "rodent contamination of plant and product." The popcorn is packaged under these labels, according to the FDA: Buddy Boy Hultless, Premiere 404 Monarch Popcorn, Our Family Popcorn, and Richelieu.

Covenant Men's Program Slated

The Covenant Men of the Evangelical Covenant Church will hold their annual Gubfest on Thursday at 8 p. m. at the Church.

The program will feature a slide presentation on Ethiopia by the Rev. Roger Patrow of Immanuel Lutheran Church, Escanaba. Dr. Carl Olson will lead devotions. Musical numbers will be presented by a Brass Trio composed of Mike Augustson, Coronet, Gerald Nyberg, Trumpet and Dale Nyberg, Trombone; and a men's quartet; Lynn Becvar, Alcott Erickson, Lynn Aepelgren, and Kent Palmquist.

Following the program, lunch will be served including the traditional speciality, Swedish potato sausage. The Covenant Men, under the direction of Carl Nyberg, extend an invitation to all in the community to this annual Fest.

Briefly Told

The Gladstone City Commission has resolved to apply to the federal government for the Survey and Plans Urban Renewal Grant at a recent special meeting. At the same meeting the low bid of the Atlantic Richfield Co., for gasoline and fuel oil was accepted. Hupy Insurance was awarded the Workmen's Compensation Insurance for the current year.

Library Group Sets Meeting, Film Program

The April meeting of the Public Library Advisory Committee of the Gladstone School and Public Library will be held Thursday in the library conference room at 10 a.m.

Charles Harper of the Escanaba Library Division of the Michigan Department of Education will present an overview and summary of the newly published Hudzik report, "A Fiscal and Organizational Analysis of Public Libraries in Michigan."

This study was made to set up guidelines for library legislation on the state level, and contains provisions affecting the Delta County. Mrs. Harold Anderson, Library Director, will assist in the presentation.

She attended a trustees' meeting on the report on April 17 in Lansing. The public is invited to attend this meeting. Further study meetings on this report will be held in May, officials said.

The residents of Fairview Manor will view a film program Thursday at 7:30 p.m. "Paddle to the Sea" and "Harvest in Japan" will be shown through the courtesy of the Gladstone School and Public Library and the Gladstone Community School.

For area children, pre-schoolers to teenagers, the library will present a film program on Saturday afternoon, April 25, in Rooms 402-403, adjacent to the Library area. "Paddle to the Sea" is the story of a young boy who lives above Lake Superior. He carves a small wooden canoe which he sends on a journey to the sea, through the Great Lakes and along the St. Lawrence River to the Atlantic. The Disney film, "Samoa" presents the people, customs, and ceremonies of Polynesia in the center of the Pacific. These films will be shown at 1:30 and 2:30 p.m. The Gladstone Community School provides student helpers to assist the younger children.

More people get more news from newspapers than all other sources combined.

Following the program, lunch will be served including the traditional speciality, Swedish potato sausage. The Covenant Men, under the direction of Carl Nyberg, extend an invitation to all in the community to this annual Fest.

Briefly Told

The Gladstone City Commission has resolved to apply to the federal government for the Survey and Plans Urban Renewal Grant at a recent special meeting. At the same meeting the low bid of the Atlantic Richfield Co., for gasoline and fuel oil was accepted. Hupy Insurance was awarded the Workmen's Compensation Insurance for the current year.

Library Group Sets Meeting, Film Program

The April meeting of the Public Library Advisory Committee of the Gladstone School and Public Library will be held Thursday in the library conference room at 10 a.m.

Charles Harper of the Escanaba Library Division of the Michigan Department of Education will present an overview and summary of the newly published Hudzik report, "A Fiscal and Organizational Analysis of Public Libraries in Michigan."

This study was made to set up guidelines for library legislation on the state level, and contains provisions affecting the system of library services in Delta County. Mrs. Harold Anderson, Library Director, will assist in the presentation.

She attended a trustees' meeting on the report on April 17 in Lansing. The public is invited to attend this meeting.

Further study meetings on this report will be held in May, officials said.

The residents of Fairview Manor will view a film program Thursday at 7:30 p.m. "Paddle to the Sea" and "Harvest in Japan" will be shown through the courtesy of the Gladstone School and Public Library and the Gladstone Community School.

For area children, pre-schoolers to teenagers, the library will present a film program on Saturday afternoon, April 25, in Rooms 402-403, adjacent to the Library area. "Paddle to the Sea" is the story of a young boy who lives above Lake Superior. He carves a small wooden canoe which he sends on a journey to the sea, through the Great Lakes and along the St. Lawrence River to the Atlantic.

The Disney film, "Samoa" presents the people, customs, and ceremonies of Polynesia in the center of the Pacific. These films will be shown at 1:30 and 2:30 p.m. The Gladstone Community School provides student helpers to assist the younger children.

More people get more news from newspapers than all other sources combined.

Colleen Rebecca Kell, Thomas L. Harris Wed

Colleen Rebecca Kell and Thomas L. Harris, both of Wilson, exchanged wedding vows during a single ring ceremony performed Saturday, April 4 at St. George Church in Bark River.

The Rev. Thomas P. Dunleavy officiated at the nuptials at 1 p.m. Easter lilies decorated the altar for the service. The St. George Choir provided the traditional wedding music.

Honor Attendants

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Kell of Wilson and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. David J. Harris also of Wilson.

Honor attendants for the couple were Mrs. Edward LaPointe of Green Bay, sister of the bride and James Harris of LaBranche, the bridegroom's brother. Seating the guests were Tony Harris of Wilson and Edward LaPointe of Green Bay.

Organza, Lace

The bride chose for her wedding a floor length A-line organza gown with lace trim fashioned with a scoop neckline, long tapered sleeves and a detachable train.

A forward cluster headpiece of organza rosebuds and petals with crystal trim held her bouffant veil of silk illusion and she carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations and yellow rosebuds.

Yellow Chiffon

The honor matron was attired in a floor length gown of yellow chiffon over satin styled with an Empire bodice and high neckline trimmed with yellow and white daisies. A large bow headpiece and matching veil completed her attire and she carried a bouquet of yellow and white carnations. Her earrings were a gift of the bride.

Mrs. Kell wore for her daughter's wedding a navy blue an white suit with white accessories and she was presented a corsage of pink carnations and red roses. The bridegroom's mother chose a blue suit with white accessories and she pinned a corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

Reception

The reception was held from 5 to 8 p.m. at the David J. Harris residence in Wilson. Assisting were Sheila Harris and Mrs. Frank Marsick. The couple will reside in Wilson.

The bride is a graduate of Powers-Spalding High School and Mr. Harris is a graduate of Bark River-Harris High School. He is employed by Schoen's Mink Ranch, Wilson.

Opening Party At Highland

The opening dinner dance of the Highland Golf Club will be held Saturday beginning with cocktails at 6:30 p.m. followed by dinner at 8 p.m. Dancing will be from 10 p.m. to 2 a.m.

Chairmen of the event are Mr. and Mrs. Grover Lewis and they will be assisted by the club directors and their wives. Reservations may be made through Thursday by calling Lu Barnhart, 786-2171 or Vickie Beck, 786-3161.

Buy and Sell The Classified Way

Dear Heloise:

Here's a little tip for people who mail breakable gifts, such as ornaments and fancy dishes. Pack them firmly in puffed wheat!

It has lots of "give" and is much cleaner than popcorn and very inexpensive!

Leslie Sanderson

Dear Heloise:

Quite sometime ago I thought there must be a use for the lids from the soup in three-course frozen dinners.

Well, today, I made a discovery. They make nice picture frames for wallet-sized pictures.

I cut out paper to fit the lid and pasted it on with white glue, then glued on the picture.

It comes complete with a hanger ready for hanging.

Mrs. J. Julien

Letter Of Laughter

Dear Heloise:

I'm making a file box of Heloise columns and recipes for my hope chest and adding my favorite cartoons, too, especially those about husbands and children.

I have a feeling that when I need the hints, I'll need a laugh, too.

Laura

Dear Heloise:

Here's something that works like a good clock:

When the lady of the house forgets to take the meat out of the freezer in time to thaw it for dinner... if she happens to have a dishwasher in the home, just put the meat in the dishwasher and turn it past the washing state. Let the meat stay until the drying cycle is completed. It is then ready for cooking.

Try this for size.

L. C. S.,
A Doctor's Maid

Dear Heloise:

I would like to submit my "Ode To The Vienna": Slide a thin knife between each sausage, and they will eject without any lossage!

I know this is a bad poem but it's the perfect solution. It will free each little sausage from its neighbor, and out they will come easy as easy can be.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise:
Here's a little tip for people who mail breakable gifts, such as ornaments and fancy dishes. Pack them firmly in puffed wheat!

It has lots of "give" and is much cleaner than popcorn and very inexpensive!

Leslie Sanderson

Dear Heloise:
Quite sometime ago I thought there must be a use for the lids from the soup in three-course frozen dinners.

Well, today, I made a discovery. They make nice picture frames for wallet-sized pictures.

I cut out paper to fit the lid and pasted it on with white glue, then glued on the picture.

It comes complete with a hanger ready for hanging.

Mrs. J. Julien

Letter Of Laughter

Dear Heloise:
I'm making a file box of Heloise columns and recipes for my hope chest and adding my favorite cartoons, too, especially those about husbands and children.

I have a feeling that when I need the hints, I'll need a laugh, too.

Laura

Dear Heloise:
Here's something that works like a good clock:

When the lady of the house forgets to take the meat out of the freezer in time to thaw it for dinner, if she happens to have a dishwasher in the home, just put the meat in the dishwasher and turn it past the washing state. Let the meat stay until the drying cycle is completed. It is then ready for cooking.

Try this for size.

L. C. S.

A Doctor's Maid

Dear Heloise:
I would like to submit my "Ode To The Vienna":

Slide a thin knife between each sausage, and they will eject without any lossage!

I know this is a bad poem but it's the perfect solution.

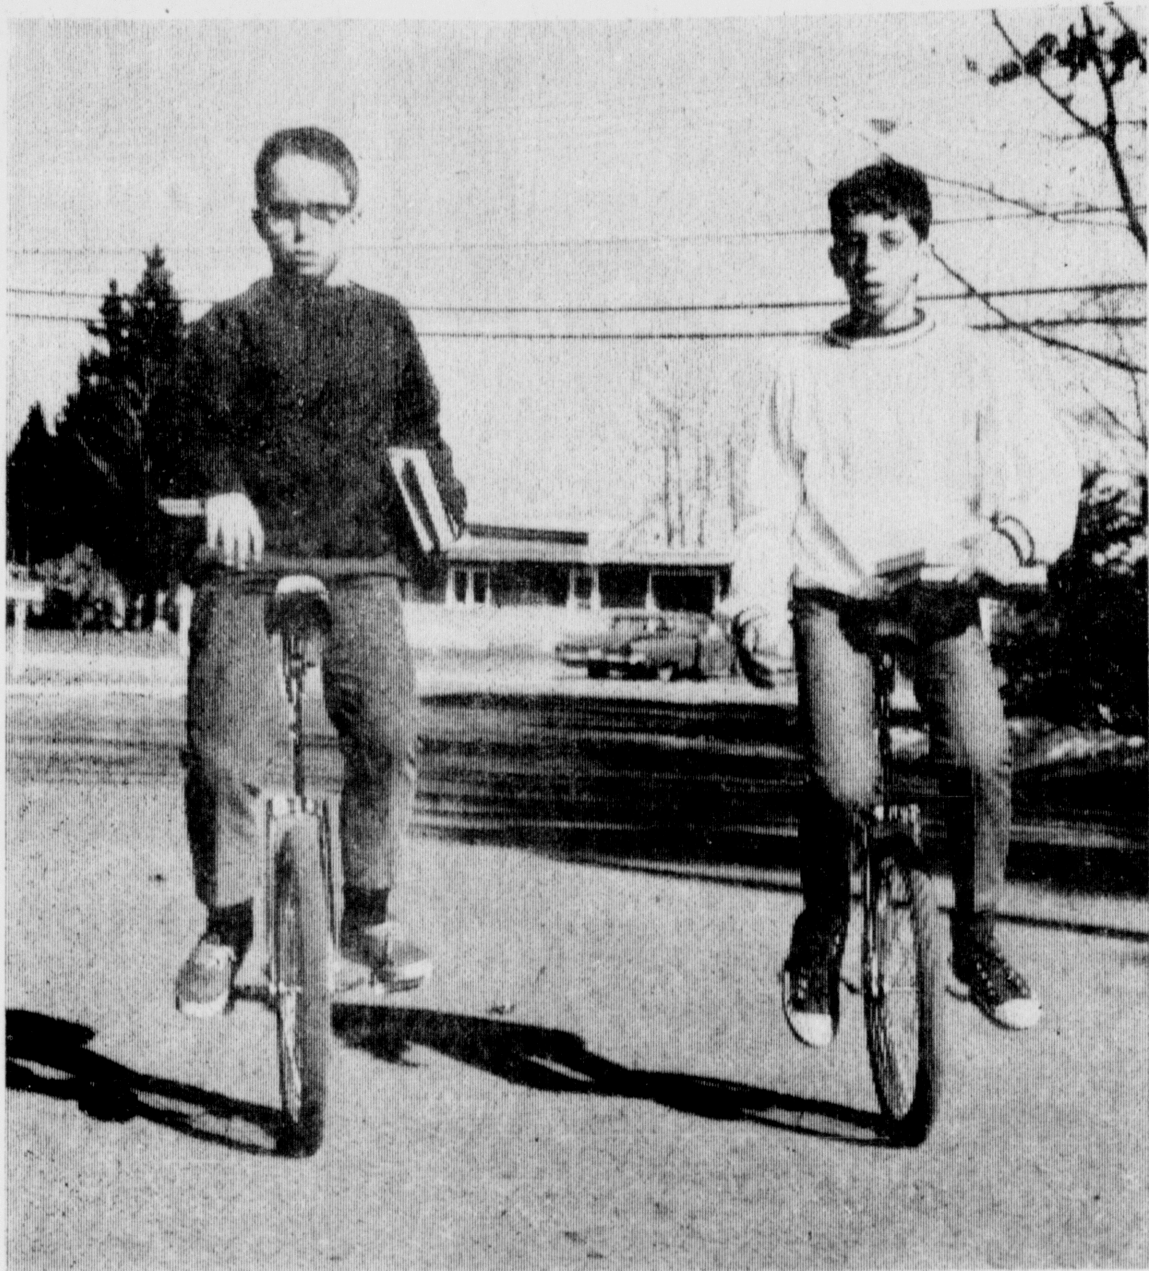

It will free each little sausage from its neighbor, and out they will come easy as easy can be.

Ground Broken For Bay de Noc School Building

By MRS. ELEANOR LaBUTTE

A large crowd attended the ground breaking ceremony at the site of the Big Bay de Noc School near Garden Corners Sunday afternoon, despite chilly weather.

The site is nine-tenths of a mile south of Garden Corners on County Road 483, and equipment is already at work clearing the area on which the building will be constructed.

One story in design, the school will be 335 feet long, 188 feet wide, have about 63,000 square feet of floor space, and was designed by Nobyn B. Haene of Mayotte-Webb Architects, Inc., East Lansing. The general contractor is Caspian Construction of Caspian.

Guests Al Krug and Robert Belongie, Iron Mountain, representing Wisconsin Michigan Power Co., were introduced by Frank Stupak, superintendent of Big Bay de Noc Public Schools.

"Today is momentous in our lives and in the history of education in this area," said Stupak.

Van Remortel Praised
"It seems as if the years have slipped by since the days of consolidation and we dared to dream of a new school. Many people have worked diligently for consolidation. To mention all is impossible, for the list would be too long.

"With the concurrence of the School Board, I can safely say, that one person more responsible than any other is Carl Van Remortel, the president of the Big Bay de Noc School Board. So it is with a sense of communal appreciation for his inspiration and devotion to the cause of education in this area that we break ground for a building which ultimately will become the symbol of our faith in the growth and development of our young people," Stupak said.

Responding, Van Remortel said there had been many problems confronting the school board in the past and there would be more in the future, but he was confident they would be overcome.

He recalled the defeat of the first election for reorganization and the approval that followed, in which the voters approved the construction of one school and the closing of the others.

Dedication Sept. 1, 1971

Van Remortel noted the cost of the school site was $9,240 and this had caused some comment, but there were no cheap ones and one available forty would have cost $15,849—30 per cent down, 7 per cent interest, balance at $100 per month, total interest $4,804, and total cost of the site $20,044 and taxes.

He said he considered the site purchase "fortunate" and said "the further we go the more we feel justified," and that the school district is pioneering in the construction of a school that will be heated by electricity.

While there were problems of getting the bonds approved and sold, "we hope we don't have any serious problems before us," and that construction bids for the school "are about the same as two years ago and we are happy about that." The hope is that the new building will be ready for dedication about Sept. 1, 1971.

All of the School Board members were present for the ground breaking, including Van Remortel, Floyd Pomeroy, Charles Rasmussen, Dale Carls, William Haindle, Elaine Hartman and Bob Johnson.

Rotarians Hear Drennan, Ness

The clubhouse of the Lake Bluff Country Club will be one of the most uniquely modern in the region, the Rotary Club was told at its meeting Tuesday noon.

Speakers were Dick Drennan, Lake Bluff Country Club promoter, and Roy Ness, building contractor, and they were introduced by Nevin Reynolds.

The meeting was conducted by Thomas Straebel, club president.

Drennan, who was Escanaba Country Club pro here 1960-62, said Lake Bluff Country Club will have both a golf course and a swimming pool, plus a program of activities for members and their families.

Ness described the physical facilities now under construction and said they will be ready by Memorial Day.

Uniquely beautiful and "second to none" in comfort and convenience, the clubhouse will have a spacious lobby, raised dining and cocktail lounge, with a "sky room" topping the structure. The Lake Bluff development is located between Escanaba and Gladstone and offers a panoramic view of Little Bay de Noc.

There will be several dining areas that can be opened to each other and provide facilities for 300 diners, with all of whom can be addressed by a speaker from a central location. The facilities will be available to approved groups in the community, Drennan told the Rotarians.

The swimming pool will be a separate but connected building and will include two saunas. The clubhouse will be 109 feet long and 76 wide and the swimming pool building will be 50 by 96 feet. Steel, stone and wood materials will be combined in the clubhouse.

The Rotary Club received information concerning the District 622 conference which will be held at Iron Mountain on May 1 and 2; and is continuing its planning for the observance of the Escanaba club's 50th anniversary at a dinner program at the Terrace on May 16.

Anti-Pollution 'Arms' Sought For Citizens

LANSING (AP) — Acting on the eve of national Earth Day observance, the Michigan House has passed a bill allowing private citizens to enlist as conservation minutemen, armed to fire legal broadsides at any desecrators of the state's environment.

The House approved and sent to the Senate by an overwhelming 98-3 vote Tuesday the proposed "Anderson Environmental Protection Act of 1970."

Court Action Possible
Under it, any citizen with the time, energy and a little money could haul any industry or governmental bureaucracy into court to justify its pollution emission or control policies.

Gov. William G. Milliken's signature on the bill, if the Senate adopts it, would put it into effect on Oct. 1.

Milliken, speaking this morning at Michigan State university's earth day ceremonies, called the bill "possibly the single most important tool" in what he said will be an "environmental revolution."

Model State Eyed
Passage of the bill, Milliken said, would give Michigan "the opportunity... of becoming a model state in the fight against pollution."

Under the bill, a citizen and government agency from a city to the state attorney general himself could sidestep the jungle of interwoven controls and supervision, to simply ask a county circuit court judge to decide the extent or probability of damage.

Substantial leeway is allowed; a judge could order an industrial polluter to pay a penalty, suspend operation or simply undergo further review within existing licensing and regulation procedures.

Partisan give-and-take produced two changes in the bill before it finally passed the House Tuesday.

Led by Rep. Thomas J. Anderson of Southgate, who sponsored it, and conservation Committee Chairman Warren Goemaere of Roseville, who helped steer it along, Democrats won a second-round battle to stiffen one provision of the bill.

But they needed from two Republicans to win a 56-44 vote on taking the word "unreasonable" out of the bill.

Included seven times in the measure as committee modifications to win Milliken's support, the word required a suit to show "that the conduct of the defendant has, or is likely to unreasonably pollute, impair or destroy the air water or other natural resources..." of the state.

Loophole Feared
Democrats argued the "unreasonable" test would become an escape loophole: Republicans contended it would be a defense against frivolous suits that would flood already overloaded court dockets.

The bill's author, University of Michigan Law professor Joseph Sax, and William J. Pierce, head of the school's Legislative Research Center, had said there was little likelihood of either possibility, but legislators continued to argue the point.

Bond Proposed
As a conciliatory gesture, Democrats later joined Republicans in voting 78-21 for an amendment offered by Rep. Harry E. Rohies, R-Akron, to require a plaintiff's bond of as much as $300.

A judge could order the bond before hearing a case if he thought the suit's filer might be unable to pay court costs in the event of losing.

Rohies said he proposed the bond because, "I don't like the idea of just anyone running up and down the street on this thing for absolutely no reason."

"Low" Tolerances
Bloomfield said the staff decided the three parts per million emission would be "undesirable" and it would trigger the alert. He said that three and 10 parts per million. Are "low tolerances for a recovery boiler."

Bloomfield said he went to the Halsey plant and could not detect a hydrogen sulfide odor at ground level during a stack downwash.

Peter Wrist, vice president of engineering for Mead, said company laboratories ran studies on four different versions of pulp with the kraft process, using calcium and ammonia.

The findings showed the kraft-processed pulp 20 times stronger over the sulfide process. He quoted from a 1966 engineering recommendation: "It has been recommended that every effort be taken to reduce odor causes from the mill."

This led to the search for emission controls, said Wrist.

Trade Unacceptable
Ray Sabuco, owner of Marco's Restaurant in Escanaba and a member of the Save Our Air committee, reported on his recent visit to Halsey, pointing out that there are still citizen complaints about odor in the area.

John Walbridge, president of American Timber Homes and another SOA member, questioned the legality of the Mead construction permit citing commission rules which say that "any contamination that affects the welfare, health and comfort of citizens" is prohibited.

"The trade of a certain amount of pollution for certain economic benefits is not acceptable," he said.

Assistant Atty. Gen. Warren Snyder told the commission it has the power to step in and modify the pollution control system after it is in operation.

Because the hearing lasted from 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., the commission postponed a report on the Chicago & North Western Railway Co. proposals for controlling dust at its Escanaba iron ore stockpiling and ship-loading facility.

Ignoring Local Pollution Rules Target Of Bill
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress received a bill Tuesday that would deny federal contracts to firms not complying with federal, state and local air and water pollution standards.

The measure introduced by Rep. James O'Hara, D-Mich., also provides withholding funds on a contract if a firm is not meeting the standards and blacklisting—his term—the company for any future contracts if violations have been established.

O'Hara, at a news conference, also released a letter to President Nixon urging that all executive pressure possible be brought on Dow Chemical and Wyandotte Chemical to clear up their damage to Lake Erie and St. Clair.

More people get more news from newspapers than all other sources combined.

GOP Workshop Planned May 1

"Mission 70s," a Republican political organization program, will be presented to Delta County Republicans Friday, May 1, at the Sherman Hotel in Escanaba, announced H. Dubbedle, Delta County Chairman.

"I would like to urge every Republican in the county who is interested in total victory this year to reserve this date and attend this meeting," Dubbedle said.

The slide and workshop session, co-sponsored by the Republican National Committee and the Republican State Central Committee, covers approaches to party organization techniques at all levels and a schedule of deadlines by which various activities are to be completed.

"We presented this program to some 300 Republican leaders in Lansing in March," said GOP State Chairman William F. McLaughlin, "and it was generally agreed that this was the finest and most comprehensive organization tool ever developed at the National level."

Murel D. Edinger, RSCC field man in the upper 9th, 10th and 11th Congressional Districts, will handle the presentation.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Chemical Disposal Still Fire Problem
Chemical decontamination and disposal continues to be a problem at Bay de Noc Community College today after Saturday's fire which caused extensive damage to the college's Science-Technical building.

Chemicals removed from the storeroom and the two laboratories of the building were put in drums and transported to Escanaba sanitary land fill site, where they were buried under 15 feet of earth.

Cletus Courchaine, chief engineer of the northern division at a local level, according to Courchaine.

Residue Removed
James Wren, administrative assistant at Bay de Noc Community College, said that hard residue is still being moved to the land fill.

Wren said that cleanup procedures are underway at the college and recovery of the least damaged areas, the machine shop and electrical lab, is expected almost immediately. The areas are being cleaned and checked for chemical contamination and the hope is to be able to use the areas the first part of next week.

Estimates on the damages are being assessed by an adjuster from the Northern Insurance Agency and figures should be ready in the next couple of days.

College Board
A report on procedures and problems related to the fire in the laboratory building is first item on the agenda for the Bay de Noc Community College Board special meeting at 8 tonight.

Building program and site progress, consideration of faculty requests regarding personnel policies affecting tenure and faculty leaves, and other business are scheduled.

of the State Health Department, said that the chemicals were buried at the land fill without the approval of the health department and that better methods must be used.

Heat May Build
Courchaine said that the chemical were put in plastic bags before being placed in steel drums, which were then also encased in plastic before being buried. He felt that if enough heat is built up, the plastic bags would melt and what the chemicals would do to the steel containers is questionable.

Courchaine has asked 5th Army Headquarters for help, but he has not received an answer yet. The 5th Army has asked for an inventory of what chemicals were buried and what remains in the storage vault to determine if they could offer any assistance.

If the 5th Army can help, it will send a decontamination team here to remove the materials for proper disposal. If they are unable to help, the removal would have to be done

Bible Predicted World Problems, Evangelist Says

Evangelist Lydia Sass, of Menominee Falls, Wis., is visiting the Cornell area this week in an effort to enlighten residents on "our troubled world" and how the Bible predicted these troubles.

Mrs. Sass has made two trips to Russia, three trips to Israel, including one during the Arab-Israeli war, and many visits to other foreign countries.

Her goal, she said, was to see for herself that the prophecies of the Bible were true. And they are, she says.

Mrs. Sass has films, slides, literature, and many hours of fascinating listening of her true life experiences as she lived and traveled through-out communist-controlled countries.

The public is invited to share these experiences at the Cornell Apostolic Church, on Truax Road, nightly, for the remainder of the week. The program begin at 7:30 p.m. and feature a different topic each evening.

Rotarians Hear Drennan, Ness

The clubhouse of the Lake Bluff Country Club will be one of the most uniquely modern in the region, the Rotary Club was told at its meeting Tuesday noon.

Speakers were Dick Drennan, Lake Bluff Country Club pro manager, and Roy Ness, building contractor, and they were introduced by Nevin Reynolds. The meeting was conducted by Thomas Straebel, club president.

Drennan, who was Escanaba Country Club pro here 1960-62, said Lake Bluff Country Club will have both a golf course and a swimming pool, plus a program of activities for members and their families.

Ness described the physical facilities now under construction and said they will be ready by Memorial Day.

There will be several dining areas that can be opened to each other and provide facilities for 300 diners, with all of whom can be addressed by a speaker from a central location. The facilities will be available to approved groups in the community, Drennan told the Rotarians.

The swimming pool will be a separate but connected building and will include two saunas. The clubhouse will be 109 feet long and 76 wide and the swimming pool building will be 50 by 96 feet. Steel, stone and wood materials will be combined in the clubhouse.

The Rotary Club received information concerning the District 622 conference which will be held at Iron Mountain on May 1 and 2; and is continuing its planning for the observance of the Escanaba club's 50th anniversary at a dinner program at the Terrace on May 16.

Anti-Pollution 'Arms' Sought For Citizens

LANSING (AP) — Acting on the eve of national Earth Day observance, the Michigan House has passed a bill allowing private citizens to enlist as conservation minutemen, armed to fire legal broadsides at any desecrators of the state's environment.

The House approved and sent to the Senate by an overwhelming 98-3 vote Tuesday the proposed "Anderson Environmental Protection Act of 1970."

Court Action Possible

Under it, any citizen with the time, energy and a little money could haul any industry or governmental bureaucracy into court to justify its pollution emission or control policies.

Gov. William G. Milliken's signature on the bill, if the Senate adopts it, would put it into effect on Oct. 1.

Milliken, speaking this morning at Michigan State university's earth day ceremonies, called the bill "possibly the single most important tool" in what he said will be an "environmental revolution. . . waged not by government or by industry, but by the people."

Model State Eyed

Passage of the bill, Milliken said, would give Michigan "the opportunity. . . of becoming a model state in the fight against pollution."

Under the bill, a citizen and government agency from a city to the state attorney general himself could sidestep the jungle of interwoven controls and supervision, to simply ask a county circuit court judge to decide the extent or probability of damage.

Air Commission Votes Temporary Permit To Build

fications are made next week, will be the authority on which the firm builds the mill.

Conditions Listed

The Text:
1. Facility is to be designed, installed and operated so as not to cause any (word "any" under question) nuisance and/or odor problems or visibility interference problems in the community.

2. In the event that one chamber of the two-chamber electrostatic precipitator system is placed out of service immediate steps will be taken to reduce the furnace loading to the equivalent production rate of 400-tons per day. As a means of facilitating this control procedure a black liquor feed metering system with an automatic stop chart readout will be provided.

3. The bark boiler dust collection system, the recovery furnace collector, the lime kiln collector and the collector installed on the smelt dissolving operation are to be performance tested not earlier than three months after the plant is placed in operation and when state designated operational conditions are attained with respect to each of those collections systems. Testing of the electrostatic precipitator on the recovery furnace is to be designed and carried out so as to enable the correlation of the following three factors: sulphide release to the atmosphere; particular loading to the atmosphere, and black liquor burn rate in the furnace.

4. A continuous monitoring arrangement is to be developed and installed so as to enable monitoring of the gases emitted from the main stack of the recovery furnace. A device similar to the Barton coulometric titrator or of some equivalent design is to be placed in use so that continuous monitoring will be done. The readings are to be continuously recorded and kept on file.

In the event that the sulphide content of the recovery furnace stack effluent reaches a concentration of 3 parts per million or more as hydrogen sulfide this will be considered an alert condition and immediate action will be taken to adjust the furnace operating conditions so as to decrease the sulphide release. In the event that a hydrogen sulfide concentration equal to or greater than 10 parts per million is measured, this shall be considered a serious condition which shall be permitted for a maximum time of six hours. The Health Department is to be immediately notified. In the event that the applicant is unable to reduce the hydrogen sulfide condition to less than 10 parts per million within the six hour period the furnace will be shut down until such time as satisfactory operating conditions can be attained.

5. It is required that the applicant undertake a monitoring program so as to assess air quality in the neighborhood of the plant. The monitoring program is to be planned in accordance with health department requirements and the data obtained is to be made available to health department upon request.

6. It is understood that some of the control items have not yet been selected but that the specifications have been developed and these items are to be put out for bids. The control equipment selected shall satisfy all of the conditions of the permit application as noted above—and assured otherwise described specifications in the permit application.

"Low" Tolerances

Bloomfield said the staff decided the three parts per million emission would be "undesirable" and it would trigger the alert. He said that three and 10 parts per million. Are "low tolerances for a recovery boiler."

Bloomfield said he went to the Halsey plant and could not detect a hydrogen sulfide odor at ground level during a stack downwash.

Peter Wrist, vice president of engineering for Mead, said company laboratories ran studies on four different versions of pulp with the kraft process, using calcium and ammonia.

The findings showed the kraft-processed pulp 20 times stronger over the sulfide process. He quoted from a 1966 engineering recommendation: "It has been recommended that every effort be taken to reduce odor causes from the mill."

This led to the search for emission controls, said Wrist.

Trade Unacceptable

Ray Sabuco, owner of Marco's Restaurant in Escanaba and a member of the Save Our Air committee, reported on his recent visit to Halsey, pointing out that there are still citizen complaints about odor in the area.

John Walbridge, president of American Timber Homes and another SOA member, questioned the legality of the Mead construction permit citing commission rules which say that "any contamination that affects the welfare, health and comfort of citizens" is prohibited. "The trade of a certain amount of pollution for certain economic benefits is not acceptable," he said.

Assistant Atty. Gen. Warren Snyder told the commission it has the power to step in and modify the pollution control system after it is in operation.

Because the hearing lasted from 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., the commission postponed a report on the Chicago & North Western Railway Co. proposals for controlling dust at its Escanaba iron ore stockpiling and ship-loading facility.

Led by Rep. Thomas J. Anderson of Southgate, who sponsored it, and conservation Committee Chairman Warren Goemaere of Roseville, who helped steer it along, Democrats won a second-round battle to stiffen one provision of the bill.

But they needed from two Republicans to win a 56-44 vote on taking the word "unreasonable" out of the bill.

Included seven times in the measure as committee modifications to win Milliken's support, the word required a suit to show "that the conduct of the defendant has, or is likely to unreasonably pollute, impair or destroy the air water or other natural resources. . . of the state."

Loophole Feared

Democrats argued the "unreasonable" test would become an escape loophole; Republicans contended it would be a defense against frivolous suits that would flood already overloaded court dockets.

The bill's author, University of Michigan Law professor Joseph Sax, and William J. Pierce, head of the school's Legislative Research Center, had said there was little likelihood of either possibility, but legislators continued to argue the point.

Bond Proposed

As a conciliatory gesture, Democrats later joined Republicans in voting 78-21 for an amendment offered by Rep. Harry E. Rohies, R-Akron, to require a plaintiff's bond of as much as $300.

A judge could order the bond before hearing a case if he thought the suit's filers might be unable to pay court costs in the event of losing.

Rohies said he proposed the bond because, "I don't like the idea of just anyone running up and down the street on this thing for absolutely no reason."

Cost Of Living Rises Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of living climbed another one-half of one per cent in March, disappointing Nixon administration officials who had hoped for a slowing in the fastest rise of consumer prices in 20 years.

The Labor Department reported the gain today.

However, it said that its monthly index, when adjusted for seasonal changes, rose four-tenths of one per cent.

This was a bit better than the five-tenths of one per cent seasonally adjusted increase in February and the six-tenths of one per cent rise shown in each of the three preceding months.

The index climbed to 133.2 per cent of the 1957-59 average. That meant that it cost the average city dweller $13.32 to purchase the same assortment of goods and services he could have bought for $10.00 a little more than 10 years ago.

A painful rise in mortgage interest rates, 4.5 per cent for the month and almost 24 per cent higher than a year ago, accounted for more than one fourth of the rise in the entire living cost index.

Doctors raised their prices higher, and hospitals continued to increase their rates, so that the price of medical care services climbed 6.8 per cent in the month, the biggest increase since September 1966.

But, both new and used cars declined in price, and food prices showed a considerably smaller gain in March than in February—largely because egg prices dropped 13 per cent; meat was six-tenths of one per cent higher, in spite of lower prices for pork and bacon.

Ignoring Local Pollution Rules Target Of Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress received a bill Tuesday that would deny federal contracts to firms not complying with federal, state and local air and water pollution standards.

The measure introduced by Rep. James O'Hara, D-Mich., also provides withholding funds on a contract if a firm is not meeting the standards and blacklisting—his term—the company for any future contracts if violations have been established.

O'Hara, at a news conference, also released a letter to President Nixon urging that all executive pressure possible be brought on Dow Chemical and Wyandotte Chemical to clear up their damage to Lake Erie and St. Clair.

More people get more news from newspapers than all other sources combined.

GOP Workshop Planned May 1

"Mission 70s," a Republican political organization program, will be presented to Delta County Republicans Friday, May 1, at the Sherman Hotel in Escanaba, announced H. Dubbele, Delta County Chairman.

"I would like to urge every Republican in the county who is interested in total victory this year to reserve this date and attend this meeting," Dubbele said.

The slide and workshop session, co-sponsored by the Republican National Committee and the Republican State Central Committee, covers approaches to party organization techniques at all levels and a schedule of deadlines by which various activities are to be completed.

"We presented this program to some 300 Republican leaders in Lansing in March," said GOP State Chairman William F. McLaughlin, "and it was generally agreed that this was the finest and most comprehensive organization tool ever developed at the National level."

Murel D. Edinger, RSCC field man in the upper 9th, 10th and 11th Congressional Districts, will handle the presentation.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Chemical Disposal Still Fire Problem

Chemical decontamination and disposal continues to be a problem at Bay de Noc Community College today after Saturday's fire which caused extensive damage to the college's Science-Technical building.

Chemicals removed from the storeroom and the two laboratories of the building were put in drums and transported to Escanaba sanitary land fill site, where they were buried under 15 feet of earth.

Cletus Courchaine, chief engineer of the northern division

College Board

A report on procedures and problems related to the fire in the laboratory building is first item on the agenda for the Bay de Noc Community College Board special meeting at 8 tonight.

Building program and site progress, consideration of faculty requests regarding personnel policies affecting tenure and faculty leaves, and other business are scheduled.

of the State Health Department, said that the chemicals were buried at the land fill without the approval of the health department and that better methods must be used.

Heat May Build

Courchaine said that the chemical were put in plastic bags before being placed in steel drums, which were then also encased in plastic before being buried. He felt that if enough heat is built up, the plastic bags would melt and what the chemicals would do to the steel containers is questionable.

Courchaine has asked 5th Army Headquarters for help, but he has not received an answer yet. The 5th Army has asked for an inventory of what chemicals were buried and what remains in the storage vault to determine if they could offer any assistance.

If the 5th Army can help, it will send a decontamination team here to remove the materials for proper disposal. If they are unable to help, the removal would have to be done

Bible Predicted World Problems, Evangelist Says

Evangelist Lydia Sass, of Menominee Falls, Wis., is visiting the Cornell area this week in an effort to enlighten residents on "our troubled world" and how the Bible predicted these troubles.

Mrs. Sass has made two trips to Russia, three trips to Israel, including one during the Arab-Israeli war, and many visits to other foreign countries.

Her goal, she said, was to see for herself that the prophecies of the Bible were true. And they are, she says.

Mrs. Sass has films, slides, literature, and many hours of fascinating listening of her true life experiences as she lived and traveled through-out communist-controlled countries.

The public is invited to share these experiences at the Cornell Apostolic Church, on Truax Road, nightly, for the remainder of the week. The program begins at 7:30 p.m. and features a different topic each evening.

Residue Removed

James Wren, administrative assistant at Bay de Noc Community College, said that hard residue is still being moved to the land fill.

When said that cleanup procedures are underway at the college and recovery of the least damaged areas, the machine shop and electrical lab, is expected almost immediately. The areas are being cleaned and checked for chemical contamination and the hope is to be able to use the areas the first part of next week.

Estimates on the damages are being assessed by an adjuster from the Northern Insurance Agency and figures should be ready in the next couple of days.

Boston, St. Louis Leading Stanley Cup Playoffs 2-0

By The Associated Press
The Boston Bruins are singing "Chicago, Chicago, it's a wonderful town" and the Pittsburgh Penguins are waiting "The St. Louis Blues" after the first two games of the Stanley Cup semifinals in the National Hockey League.

The Bruins headed home to Boston Garden today with a 2-0 lead in their best-of-7 East Division series with the Chicago Black Hawks. The Penguins are en route to Pittsburgh trailing St. Louis 2-0 in the West.

Orr Sharp
Boston, with Bobby Orr's brilliance again providing the difference, defeated the Hawks 4-1 Tuesday night while the Blues downed the Penguins by the same score.

Orr, the magnificent 22-year-old defenseman who led the NHL in scoring for the regular season, got his first goal of the year against Chicago and started the Bruins on the road to victory. He had a total of three points, all assists, against the Hawks in eight regular season games, first game and Tuesday night's regular season production in two playoff clashes.

"We've been checking pretty good and getting the breaks," Orr said after Tuesday's game.

"We're in a lot better position now than before we came to Chicago."

The Bruins managed only one victory and a tie in eight regular season appearances in Chicago.

The Black Hawks shifted veteran Bobby Hull from right wing to center during the early going in an attempt to confuse the Boston defense. It didn't work. Chicago managed only 13 shots on goal in the first two periods.

Bruins' Espinoza Scores
Phil Esposito of the Bruins, leading scorer in last year's Stanley Cup series and the No. 2 pointmaker behind teammate Orr in the regular campaign, got his 10th goal of the playoffs, slashing the puck past his younger brother Tony, the Hawks goalie, at 8:05 of the final period.

Phil is two goals shy of the Stanley Cup record jointly owned by Maurice Richard, 1944, and Jean Beliveau, 1966, both of Montreal.

"As long as we keep playing this way, there's not much they can do about anything—I hope," said Phil Esposito.

Pittsburgh Coach Red Kelly made some unexpected shifts, also, and he wasn't any more successful than Chicago's Bill

Defending U.P. Champs Facing Rebuilding Year

The 1970 addition of the Gladstone Braves track team will be unveiled Friday afternoon in a triangular meet against the Escanaba Eskymos and the Holy Name Crusaders at the Escanaba Athletic Field beginning at 3:30.

The Braves, coached by Bob Richards and Jack Ingalls, have been working out for several weeks in the high school gymnasium and earlier this past week moved outside. The coaching staff will have its work cut out for them as the Braves lost nineteen seniors from last year's Great Lakes Conference and Upper Peninsula A-B championship team. Lost from last year's team were six of the eight boys who won points in the U. P. Finals last season.

The defending U. P. champions will have eight veterans among the 60 candidates working out for this year's team. Cliff Young seems to be showing the form that brought him the U.P. 880 championship last year and also looking good is Jeff Schram, who placed third in the two mile run last season in the U. P. Finals, but has switched to the mile event this season.

Other letter winners from last season who have been looking good so far are seniors John Skellenger in the 100 and 200; Dave Shantz, a transfer student who ran the 440 in 53 seconds; Brian Anderson in the 440; Bart Stupak in the 880; Bill Heitman in the mile; Mark Oja in the two mile; Bob Young in the hurdles and Mike Quinn and Gerald Nyberg in the shot put.

Adding depth to the squad will be veterans Gary Young in the 100 and hurdles, Keith Demuse in the 220, Pat McGarry and Terry Cartwright in the 440, Jim Englund in the 880, Dave Otensman in the hurdles, and Jim Marmalik in the two mile run.

The Braves, in a rebuilding year, will have eight point producers back from the Great Lakes Conference meet. Marquette and Ishpeming, who have finished second to the Braves in the last two seasons, will be the top contenders for the crown this spring.

Richards said that due to the inclement weather, which has hampered the training program considerably, he is sure he will find a few more boys who will be real threats to the opposing schools. Richards also stated that he hopes the team will be ready for the conference meet at Manistique on May 9.

Gladstone's team is composed of 18 seniors, 10 juniors, 10 sophomores and 15 freshmen.

Juniors are Kent Anderson, Joe Dehlin, Gary LeClaire, Richard Oja, Randy Smith, Mason Thibeault, Gary Young and James Marmalik.

Maye thought he was pressing too much and doing too many wrong things, so the Washington Senators outfielder decided to experiment. The New York Yankees were the victims of the results.

Maye had only four hits, all to right field in 19 trips to the plate prior to Tuesday night's game against New York, but he collected four hits—two doubles—in four times at bat and scored four runs against the Yankees for a 7-5 Washington win.

In other American League contests, Detroit nipped Cleveland 5-3, Minnesota topped Chicago 4-3, Oakland trimmed Kansas City 4-3 and California downed Milwaukee 3-1.

More important to Maye than the hits he collected was the fact that three of them sailed to left field.

"I was pressing too much," said leftfielder Maye after the Senators' win. "I just wasn't waiting and I was trying to pull the ball."

"I took some extra batting practice and tried hitting to the opposite field. And I forced myself to wait for the pitch I wanted. I'm a better hitter when I wait but it's pretty hard for a guy when he's not getting any hits."

Stottlemyre Loses
Casey Cox won his third in a row against no losses while New York's Mel Stottlemyre lost his third against no victories.

A key blow against Stottlemyre was Bernie Allen's three-run homer in the fifth inning following a two-out error by Yankee shortstop Gene Michael.

Harmon Killebrew's three-run homer in the sixth inning provided the Twins with their winning margin. It was Killebrew's second of the season and 448th of his career. He also scored his 900th career run. White Sox starter Tommy John absorbed his fourth loss of the young season.

Don Mincher rapped a two-run homer in the eighth inning, giving the A's their victory after helping the Royals take a 3-2 edge earlier in the inning with a throwing error.

Mincher, the big first baseman obtained during the winter from California, scooped up Ed Kirkpatrick's sacrifice bunt and

Tigers Edge Tribe; Wilson Wins Again

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Earl Wilson, 34-year-old right hander whose starting role was uncertain until Denny McLain was suspended, spun a three-hitter and won his second victory of the season as the Detroit Tigers beat the Cleveland Indians 5-3 Tuesday night.

Wilson went most of the distance, being lifted in the ninth for a pinchhitter.

"He probably wasn't loose when the game started," said Manager Mayo Smith, referring to the three runs Cleveland gained in the first two innings on homers by Vada Pinson and Eddie Leon.

Smith said Wilson also was cold and that near the end "he was getting tired. It's too early in the year to expect pitchers to go all the way in a hard game. Earl did a heck of a job. But he has been doing a heck of a job all spring."

Wilson was being iced down in the trainer's room after the game and wasn't talking.

But it was Cesar Gutierrez, two-run double to right center in the ninth that broke the 3-3 tie and gave the Tigers their sixth consecutive victory.

"I played the kid too shallow," lamented Pinson. "It's a ball that's got to be caught."

"I noticed Pinson was playing right behind the infield every time I came up against him," said Gutierrez, a 27-year-old Venezuelan. "I know if I get the right pitch I can hit it over his head."

Indians reliever Steve Hargan fired a perfect waist-high pitch across the outside corner. It was his first pitch to Gutierrez and rookie Elliott Maddox was stealing second.

"I was surprised to see Maddox run and I know I have to swing to protect him," Gutierrez said. "The pitch was perfect to go to right field."

Cleveland starter Dean Chance gave up three runs in the fourth on five hits, including Al Kaline's single that triggered the Detroit rally.

Pinson's homer after Craig Nettles walked put the Indians ahead 2-0 in the first. Leon led off the second with a homer.

The Tigers tied it in the fourth on Kaline's single. Norm Cash's double, a fielder's choice and singles by Jim Northrup and Maddox.

Mickey Lolich will pitch for the Tigers tonight against Cleveland's Sam McDowell.

Rampaging Reds Outslug Atlanta

By The Associated Press
The Red Menace has gone with the wind, leaving Atlanta in a shambles and Phil Niekro in a state of shock.

Cincinnati's rampaging Reds tagged Niekro for four of their seven home runs Tuesday night and thumped the bedazzled Braves 13-8 to go 4 1/2 games ahead of the pack in the National League West.

"If Cincinnati is this good," mused Braves Manager Luman Harris, "they can just go on to the World Series."

Only three weeks having gone by in the regular season, the Reds will go on instead to St. Louis—after today's open date—with a 13-4 season mark and 30 home runs, the last 10 of them in two victories at Atlanta.

The Braves, meanwhile, will spend an off-day pondering the wreckage of a 2-6 homestand that has dropped them into the West Division cellar.

In Tuesday's other NL action, Pittsburgh outlasted Houston 9-8; the Chicago Cubs downed St. Louis 7-4 and San Diego tripped the New York Mets 5-3. Rain washed out the Los Angeles-Montreal and San Francisco-Philadelphia games.

Perez Hits Homer
Tony Perez, the majors' hottest hitter, crashed his eighth homer and three singles to pace the Reds' 17-hit assault against Niekro, 0-4, and four Atlanta relievers.

Perez' 4-for-5 night boosted his batting average to .484, tops in both leagues. The Cincinnati third baseman also is setting the pace in home runs, RBI (22) and hits (30).

"That guy could hit Walter Johnson in his prime," said Harris.

Pirates Win Again
Roberto Clemente's first homer of the year capped a five-run flurry in the sixth inning, sending the Pirates ahead 9-4, and they hung on to shade Houston. Jim Wynn delivered five runs for the Astros with a bases-loaded double and his fourth homer.

Billy Williams' three-run homer and Johnny Callison's two-run blast, both off Bob Gibson in the seventh inning, carried the Cubs past the Cardinals to their sixth straight victory. The homers were the first of the season off St. Louis pitching.

San Diego, beaten 11 straight times by the Mets, scored twice in the ninth to snap a 3-3 dead-end, Clarence Gaston knocking in the go-ahead run when center fielder Tommie Agee misjudged his liner and it fell for a double. Nate Colbert hit his sixth homer for the Padres.

Defending U.P. Champs Facing Rebuilding Year

The 1970 addition of the Gladstone Braves track team will be unveiled Friday afternoon in a triangular meet against the Escanaba Eskimos and the Holy Name Crusaders at the Escanaba Athletic Field beginning at 3:30.

The Braves, coached by Bob Richards and Jack Ingalls, have been working out for several weeks in the high school gymnasium and earlier this past week moved outside. The coaching staff will have its work cut out for them as the Braves last nineteen seniors from last year's Great Lakes Conference and Upper Peninsula A-B championship team. Lost from last year's team were six of the eight boys who won points in the U. P. Finals last season.

The defending U. P. champions will have eight veterans among the 60 candidates working out for this year's team. Cliff Young seems to be showing the form that brought him the U.P. 880 championship last year and also looking good is Jeff Schram, who placed third in the two mile run last season in the U. P. Finals, but has switched to the mile event this season.

Other letter winners from last season who have been looking good so far are seniors John Skellenger in the 100 and 220; Dave Shantz, a transfer student who ran the 440 in 53 seconds; Brian Anderson in the 440; Bart Stupak in the 880; Bill Heitman in the mile; Mark Oja in the two mile; Bob Young in the hurdles and Mike Quinn and Gerald Nyberg in the shot put.

Adding depth to the squad will be veterans Gary Young in the 100 and hurdles, Keith Demeuse in the 220, Pat McGarry and Jerry Cartwright in the 440, Jim Englund in the 880, Dave Ottensman in the hurdles, and Jim Marmalik in the two mile run.

The Braves, in a rebuilding year, will have eight point producers back from the Great Lakes Conference meet. Marquette and Ishpeming, who have finished second to the Braves in the last two seasons, will be the top contenders for the crown this spring.

Richards said that due to the inclement weather, which has hampered the training program considerably, he is sure he will find a few more boys who will be real threats to the opposing schools. Richards also stated that he hopes the team will be ready for the conference meet at Manistique on May 9.

Gladstone's team is composed of 18 seniors, 10 juniors, 15 sophomores and 15 freshmen.

The remainder of the team consists of seniors Gary Allsworth, Lynn Apelgren, Warren Bovin, Bradly Carlson, Ricky Cartwright, Thomas Potentbauer, Michael Reimer and Robert Russell.

Juniors are Kent Anderson, Joe Dehlin, Gary LeClaire, Richard Oja, Randy Smith, Mason Thibault, Gary Young and James Marmalik.

Sophomores are Rollie Beach, Greg Boden, David Clark, Jeff Cowen, Michael Davis, Keith Demeuse, James Englund, Thomas Goodman, Jerry Hardwick, John Lindberg, John Makie, David McKnight, James Noreus, Robert Skellenger, Donald Townes, Gary Louis and Douglas Aox.

The Braves Schedule:

April 24 — Triangular at Escanaba with Escanaba and Holy Name.

April 28 — Stephenson Here May 2 — Newberry Invitational at Newberry.

May 6 — Soo Invitational at Soo.

May 9 — Conference meet at Manistique.

May 11 — Gwinn Triangular with Holy Name at Gwinn.

May 15 — Regional at Menominee.

May 18 — Holy Name Here May 23 — U. P. Finals at Marquette.

Lee Maye thought he was pressing too much and doing too many wrong things, so the Washington Senators outfielder decided to experiment. The New York Yankees were the victims of the results.

Maye had only four hits, all to right field in 19 trips to the plate prior to Tuesday night's game against New York, but he collected four hits—two doubles—in four times at bat and scored four runs against the Yankees for a 7-5 Washington win.

In other American League contests, Detroit nipped Cleveland 5-3, Minnesota topped Chicago 4-3, Oakland trimmed Kansas City 4-3 and California downed Milwaukee 3-1.

More important to Maye than the hits he collected was the fact that three of them sailed to left field.

"I was pressing too much," said left-hander Maye after the Senators' win. "I just wasn't waiting and I was trying to pull the ball."

"I took some extra batting practice and tried hitting to the opposite field. And I forced myself to wait for the pitch I wanted. I'm a better hitter when I wait but it's pretty hard for a guy when he's not getting any hits."

Stottelmyre Loses
Casey Cox won his third in a row against no losses while New York's Mel Stottelmyre lost his third against no victories.

A key blow against Stottelmyre was Bernie Allen's three-run homer in the fifth inning following a two-out error by Yankee shortstop Gene Michael.

Harmon Killebrew's three-run homer in the sixth inning provided the Twins with their winning margin. It was Killebrew's second of the season and 448th of his career. He also scored his 999th career run. White Sox starter Tommy John absorbed his fourth loss of the young season.

Don Mincher rapped a two-run homer in the eighth inning, giving the A's their victory after helping the Royals take a 3-2 edge earlier in the inning with a throwing error.

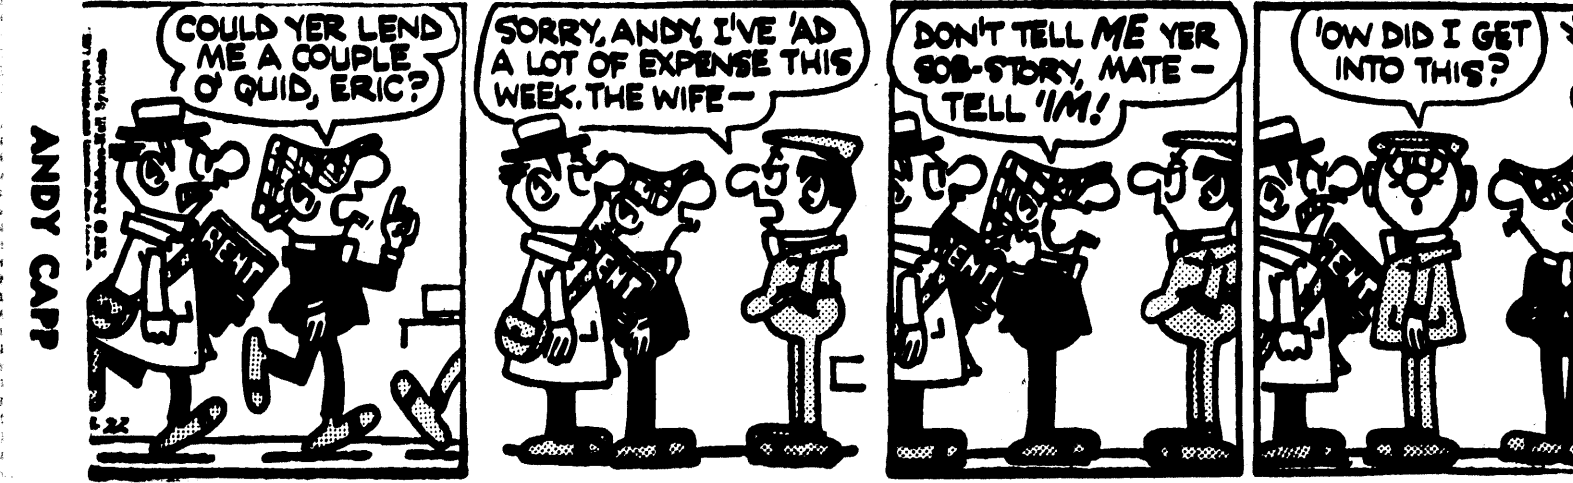

Mincher, the big first baseman obtained during the winter from California, scooped up Ed Kirkpatrick's sacrifice bunt and

MANISTIQUE

Armory Site Is Changed

A new location has been chosen for Manistique's $323,000 armory after soil tests disclosed the proposed lake shore site opposite the State Police post unsuitable.

The new location must be approved by Harley Ellington Associates of Detroit, armory architects.

The armory group met with the City Council Monday night to discuss the veto of the lake shore location after soil tests disclosed a high water table and poor soil composition.

Costs Prohibitive

Foundation costs at the lake shore site would be prohibitive, the Guard said, since the land is four feet below grade of U. S. 2, would require removal of four feet of sawdust and silt and eight feet of new soil fill.

The new site is in an area designated as recreational, but is not included in the proposed city recreational park development. The parcel was earmarked for future development as a bathhouse site.

The city's industrial park site on N. Cedar St., near the old city sheds, was mentioned as a possible location, but failed to generate much enthusiasm from the committee.

$20,000 Suggested

The architects have estimated costs of upgrading the armory building in excess of $17,000, but suggested the figure be rounded off to a safe $20,000 to allow for contingencies.

Enlarging the drill hall from 5,400 square feet to 6,000 square feet would cost an estimated $10,285; facing brick, rather than common brick, adds $1,600; folding classroom partitions, $950; vinyl asbestos tile for the drill hall, $500; and utility connections, $3,800.

Building costs for a criteria armory will be paid through a $135,000 state appropriation, plus $188,000 federal grant which was approved last month. Upgrading costs are a local responsibility and must come from $30,000 the city raised through a tax levy several years ago.

Board Election At Bay de Noc Slated June 8

Voters in the Big Bay de Noc School District will elect two board of education members in the June 8 school election.

The terms of Mrs. Elaine Hartman of Cooks and Charles Rasmussen of Garden are expiring. Mrs. Hartman is seeking reelection but Rasmussen has indicated he will not be a candidate.

Mrs. Hartman is completing a one-year appointive term on the board. She was named to her husband John's former post when he resigned because of illness.

Nominating petitions are available from board secretary Robert Johnson at his Isabella home. Further information may be obtained from Johnson by telephoning him at 644-2263.

All nominating petitions must be filed with the secretary by Friday, May 8 at 4 p.m.

Non-registered, eligible voters must register with their township clerk before May 8 in order to vote in the June 8 election. Any registered voter, not only property owners, is eligible to vote in the school election.

Legion Team Sets Tryouts

Baseball players who wish to sign up for Manistique Chiefs baseball team play this summer are asked to report to Cardinal Field at 6:30 p.m. next Tuesday, April 28. Any man who will reach his 19th birthday after Aug. 1 is eligible to try out for Legion baseball.

Practice session will be held immediately following registration, weather permitting, and players are asked to bring the necessary equipment.

Several veteran players are past the age limit and most positions are wide open with pitchers and catchers especially in demand. Anyone interested may contact coaches Chuck Jarvi or Jack King for further information.

The Chiefs had a very successful 1969 season winning 12 games and losing 4 for 750 percentage. They posted 7 wins and 2 losses in Waubesa League play to share the championship with Escanaba.

Board Accepts Budget Plan

The County Allocation Board accepted budgetary requests for county levied millage at their organizational meeting Monday night. Raymond Krusick, city delegate, was reelected board chairman.

Budgets were submitted by all eight townships, Manistique Area Schools, the county and the Delta-Schoolcraft Intermediate School District who are vying for a share of the 15 mills available.

Prosecuting Attorney G. S. Johnson was asked to prepare an opinion on the legality of the Hiawatha Township Board officers voting themselves a pension plan. A resolution was offered commending the late William Burger, a county at-large delegate, for his work on the board.

Future meetings were scheduled for April 30, May 14 and May 21 at the Court House.

Loft 2 Balloons In Experiment

The Lakeside School kindergarten students of Mrs. Marion Haas released two helium-filled balloons last week as part of a science experiment. The students were studying the properties of wind and the balloon launching was to demonstrate how the wind carries certain objects.

The first balloon drifted out of sight in the southerly direction of Lake Michigan after its release. Two days later a second balloon went up and the wind carried it north of Manistique where it was found, two hours later, on M-94 by Leo Gould.

Both balloons carried notes requesting the finders to notify the class when and where found. The students are anxiously awaiting word on their first balloon's whereabouts.

Dan Malloy Gains Degree At WMU

His parents and parents-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hoholik, 226 Deer St., attended the graduation exercises.

NC Changing To 'Smokeless' Jet

North Central Airlines is the first regional carrier in the United States to operate a fan jet aircraft with the new smokeless JT8-D engine.

A special demonstration flight of the DC-9 fan jet was observed Monday at the airline's main operations base in the Twin Cities by officials of the Minneapolis-St. Paul Metropolitan Airports Commission, the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency and members of the press.

The 100-passenger DC-9 fan jet is now flying in scheduled service.

Leslie J. Keely, vice president-maintenance and engineering, announced that North Central's jet engine retrofit program will be completed during 1972, in accord with the agreement reached in Washington January 20 at a meeting between the 31 airlines and the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare and the Secretary of Transportation.

"This flight," Keely said, marks the beginning of North Central's continuing efforts to eliminate smoke emission from our fleet of 13 fan jet aircraft.

Johnson Earns MSU Doctorate

Mr. and Mrs. J. Anton Mallmann, 316 S. 16th St., had a double reason for attending the recent winter term commencement exercises at Michigan State University.

Their son-in-law, Dr. Robert W. Johnson, was awarded his doctorate in mechanical engineering, and Mallmann's brother, Dr. W. L. Mallmann, professor emeritus at MSU, received an honorary Doctor of Science degree.

Dr. Johnson and his wife, the former Susan Mallmann of Escanaba, reside in the St. Joseph area where he is employed as a research engineer by Whirlpool Corp.

parts for the modification." Keely added that the company will file periodic progress reports to national and state agencies which are evaluating the industry's voluntary anti-pollution program.

Bernard Sweet, president of North Central, said, "Our company has a responsibility to the community in the operation of our aircraft, and we are pleased to introduce this retrofit program which will produce recognizable improvement in smoke emission."

Since inaugurating service in 1948, North Central has carried 23.1 million passengers and flown 3.9 billion passenger miles. The airline now serves 90 cities in 12 states and Canada over a 9,200-mile route system.

Hickel Plans Mass Clean-Up Of Lake Erie

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel initiated today what he called a massive campaign to clean up Lake Erie.

Hickel said in a statement his action was prompted by reports of lethal discharges of mercury from industrial plants into the lake and the Detroit River which empties into the lake.

The secretary said he is distressed by the economic losses and possible health hazards caused by the mercury, which contaminates fish and could be harmful to humans who eat the fish.

Hickel announced an enforcement conference on Lake Erie will be reconvened in Detroit, followed by enforcement workshops in Toledo, Cleveland, Lorain, Sandusky and Ashtabula, Ohio; Erie, Pa., and Lackawanna, N.Y.

He also: —Assigned his special investigative task force to obtain first-hand data on the entire water pollution problem in the Lake Erie watershed. The lake itself is considered by health authorities to be a polluted body of water.

—Ordered closer monitoring and stepped-up research at the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service's Great Lakes Fishery Laboratory at Ann Arbor, Mich., on the toxic effects of mercury and other metallic compounds on aquatic life.

—Directed the Federal Water Quality Administration to identify and prepare a list of all toxic substances discharged in U.S. waters.

Hickel said he will take legal steps to stop the mercury discharges if requested by the governors of the affected states.

Substantial improvement will be noticeable in the next few months, and by the end of June eight of our fan jet engines will be equipped with new low-smoke combustors.
